OLG Church sponsors its annual Christmas Concert

Members of Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church Parish (OLG) invite the community to join in the spirit of Christmas during the Annual Concert on Sunday, Dec. 19 at 7:30 p.m. The concert, to be held at the Church (228 South Beach Boulevard in Bay St. Louis), features Christmas Oratorio by Camille Saint-Saens and other songs of the season. The concert is presented by the OLG Choir in association with accomplished musicians and soloists from throughout the region. The concert features the newly restored and enhanced Rive Organ, a Chamber Orchestra and Harp.

Conducted by OLG Music

Director Edward M. Grotkowski, the concert is free and open to the public. A gala reception will follow the concert in the OLG Community Center.

OLG Church is the mother church of all Catholic Churches in Hancock County. With over 5,500 registered Parishioners, it is the second largest in the Diocese of Biloxi. It is also the third oldest Parish on the Gulf Coast and the fifth oldest in Mississippi.

During the concert, the public will have the opportunity to view the impressive high altar, built of Italian Carrerra marble, and the dome over the altar that features a large painting of Mary as Our Lady of the Gulf to whom the church is dedicated. Exquisite stained glass windows by Mayer and Company in Munich, Germany, adorn each side of the Church, intended for meditation and for lifting one's spirit.

"Music is important in the celebration of divine mysteries and the organ has always held a place of honor," said Grotkowski. "Whether as an accompaniment for singing or as a solo instrument, this instrument adds splendor to sacred celebrations, offers praise to God, and fosters a sense of prayer in the faithful."

Blood in short supply this season

THE SEA COAST ECHO
Although it is easy for most people to postpone giving blood in December, the need for blood does not stop for the holidays.

Life-threatening blood shortages can occur by early January if donors do not continue to give blood throughout the holiday season. Cancer, Leukemia and sickle cell patients still require blood transfusions, emergency surgeries still take place, burn victims depend on blood donors and difficult childbirths may require the need for blood for mothers and their babies even at Christmastime.

Although this season can be hectic, it only takes about an hour out of your schedule to give blood.

That hour you give will make such a difference in someone's life during the holidays. During the holiday season, many people are helping their favorite charities by donating toys, food, clothes or money, but many hospital patients are in need of the gift that will be transfused to save their lives. They are counting on people to donate blood.

To give blood you must be at least 17 years old, weigh 110 pounds or more, have not donated blood in the past 56 days, and be in good health.

For more information about donating blood, please call the Red Cross at 896-2217 or the Diamondhead United Methodist Church at 255-6888.

Ecstasy, other charges face Lakeshore man

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Publisher Emeritus
Red light running led to the arrest of a Lakeshore resident on drug and traffic charges, including being out on Federal Probation, according to Waveland Police Chief Jimmy Varnell and Bay St. Louis Chief Frank McNeil.

The chiefs, in a news release said, "Don Anthony Hunter, 23, of Lakeshore was arrested on Saturday, Dec. 4, and charged with, disregard for traffic control device, driving under suspended driver license, disorderly conduct, failure to comply, resisting arrest by flight, possession of controlled substance (Ecstasy). Hunter is being housed in the Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility under a $6,400 bond. He is also being held until Federal Probation Officers can be contacted, as it was learned Hunter was on Federal probation."

"Waveland Officer Ronald Storey made the traffic stop on Hunter. During the investigation, Storey had reason to believe that the driver of the vehicle had something to hide. As Storey placed the suspect on the back of his vehicle to search him for possible weapons, he took off running," the report said.

The chiefs continued, "Officer Todd Blake arrived on the scene to assist Storey. As Hunter fled, they saw him take a bottle of pills from a pocket. They caught up with him and handcuffed him. The pill bottle contained Xanax and seven green pills which tested positive for Ecstasy."

Bay-Waveland Narcotics Task Force Agent Brent Anderson was called to the scene and is in charge of the investigation.

Two face burglary of vehicle charges

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Publisher Emeritus

A Bay St. Louis and a Waveland resident face charges of the burglary of a vehicle, according to Sheriff Steve Garber.

Investigator Matt Barnett said, "On the night of December 8, Nicklos Cooper, 18, of Waveland and Joseph Ritchie, 19, of Bay St. Louis, were arrested and charged with burglary of a vehicle in the area of Ansley Road in Heron Bay."

"Through good information received from the burglarized victim, who with the help of friend were able to follow the suspect vehicle and get a good identification, Deputies Jody Richardson and Tim Airhart were able to locate the suspects," Barnett said.

The victim's vehicle had four tire slashed in addition to his radio, leather jacket and other items taken. The vehicle was towed in for evidence and contained other items including burglary tools, Barnett added.

Barnett did say that Ritchie was out on bond for another charge and his bond was set at $10,000, while Cooper's bond was set at $5,000.

Ecstasy, other charges face Lakeshore man

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS

Red light running led to the arrest of a Lakeshore resident on drug and traffic charges, including being out on Federal Probation, according to Waveland Police Chief Jimmy Varnell and Bay St. Louis Chief Frank McNeil.

The chiefs, in a news release said, "Don Anthony Hunter, 23, of Lakeshore was arrested on Saturday, Dec. 4, and charged with, disregard for traffic control device, driving under suspended driver license, disorderly conduct, failure to comply, resisting arrest by flight, possession of controlled substance (Ecstasy). Hunter is being housed in the Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility under a $5,400 bond. He is also being held until Federal Probation Officer can be contacted, as it was learned Hunter was on Federal probation."

"Waveland Officer Ronald Storey made the traffic stop on Hunter. During the investigation, Storey had reason to believe that the driver of the vehicle had something to hide. As Storey placed the suspect on the back of his vehicle to search him for possible weapons, he took off running," the report said.

The chiefs continued, "Officer Todd Blake arrived on the scene to assist Storey. As Hunter fled, they saw him take a bottle of pills from a pocket. They caught up with him and handcuffed him. The pill bottle contained Xanax and seven green pills which tested positive for Ecstasy."

Bay-Waveland Narcotics Task Force Agent Brent Anderson was called to the scene and is in charge of the investigation.

Two face burglary of vehicle charges

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Publisher Emeritus
A Bay St. Louis and a Waveland resident face charges of the burglary of a vehicle, according to Sheriff Steve Garber.

Investigator Matt Barnett said, "On the night of December 8, Nicklos Cooper, 18, of Waveland and Joseph Ritchie, 19, of Bay St. Louis, were arrested and charged with burglary of a vehicle in the area of Ansley Road in Heron Bay."

"Through good information received from the burglarized victim, who with the help of friend were able to follow the suspect vehicle and get a good identification, Deputies Jody Richardson and Tim Airhart were able to locate the suspects," Barnett said.

The victim's vehicle had four tire slashed in addition to his radio, leather jacket and other items taken. The vehicle was towed in for evidence and contained other items including burglary tools, Barnett added.

Barnett did say that Ritchie was out on bond for another charge and his bond was set at $10,000, while Cooper's bond was set at $5,000.

Let's all get in the Christmas Spirit

Christmas decorations appear to be going up at a slow pace this year.

In all probability weather has been somewhat of a factor. Normally we have had several freezes and the colder weather seems to get folks more in the "Christmas Spirit."

Some of the decorations I have noticed are very nice and I feel that within the next week or so there will be many more decorations up about the area.

While on the subject of Christmas, if you have not completed your shopping for the season, time is beginning to run short.

Including today there are only 13 more shopping days until Christmas.

If you are seeking a specific toy, or high profile item, they may begin to become harder to find too.

Our local merchants are eager to help everyone with their shipping, so remember, it pays to Shop-at-Home too.

In checking around the area's store, toys sure have become more advanced, especially in the electronics field.

Kids want toys which my generation would never even thought of as being possible.

One thing about it, children are children for only a short period of time and they need to enjoy their youth.

Best of shopping to everyone.

This is sure party time. It seems there is some type of party going on every day, some days several.

Too bad the parties could not be spaced out over several months rather than a few weeks of December.

And just a few week following Christmas, the Krewe of Nereids will be rambling down Highway 90 in the Waveland-Bay area on Sunday, January 29, 2005.

Mardi Gras Day this year is February 8th. So, following Christmas the Mardi Gras Krewe's Balls will be taking place in January.

For many folks there will be two consecutive months of partying.

MS needs a primary seatbelt law

BY DR. BILL PAYNE

Motor vehicle crashes are the leading cause of death for Mississippians age 5-29, causing almost one third of the deaths of children age 5-14 and about half the deaths of teenagers. Mississippi's age adjusted motor vehicle fatality rate actually ranks worst in the nation and is twice the national rate. It is therefore no surprise that the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration has identified our state's seatbelt usage as the worst in the country.

Unfortunately, too many of our highway traffic fatalities are deaths of children and young adults. Injury Prevention magazine estimates that one third of all unintentional childhood injury deaths in the U.S. are preventable and too many of all highway traffic deaths in Mississippi could be prevented - if Mississippi had a primary seatbelt law.

A primary seatbelt law allows a law enforcement officer to ticket a driver just because the driver and/or other passengers are riding unbuckled. Mississippi only has a secondary law - meaning law enforcement officers may issue a ticket for not using seatbelts only if a primary violation has occurred.

As Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol spokesman Warren Strain points out, no more than 63.2 percent of Mississippi's drivers buckle up - and adults who do not use their seatbelts are less likely to make sure that the children riding with them wear their seatbelts. A recent National Highway Traffic Safety Administration study finds that seat belted drivers were about 40 percent more likely to buckle in their child passengers.

In fact, state surveys have found that 70 percent of Mississippians support a primary seatbelt law. Unfortunately, the age group that is least likely to buckle up without a primary seatbelt law is also the age group most at risk of dying on the highway - teens and young adults. During the 2004 Legislative Session, the state Chapter of the American Academy of Pediatrics worked with a large coalition of physicians' groups, law enforcement associations, and civic groups to push for passage of a primary seatbelt law in Mississippi. Other states that have passed primary seatbelt laws have seen seatbelt use increase and traffic fatalities decrease. Unfortunately, the primary seatbelt proposals in Mississippi never made it out of the House Transportation subcommittee and therefore were never heard by the House. Hopefully this next session will be different. Recent deaths of teenagers in car crashes around the

Who do you ask about Social Security?

Sometimes the hardest part about getting a question answered is knowing whom to ask. And that can certainly be true if you, a relative or friend has a question about a large government program such as Medicare.

To whom should you go for an answer? The folks at Social Security? Or the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS), the federal agency that administers the Medicare program?

The answer actually depends on the type of Medicare question that you have.

Here is a convenient guide that you may want to keep handy.

Contact Social Security if:

- * You want to sign up for Medicare Part A or Part B;

- * You need a replacement Medicare card; or

- * You have questions about Medicare premiums.

For more information about these subjects or services, you can visit the Social Security website at www.socialsecurity.gov or call 1-800-772-1213 (TTY 1-800-325-0778).

Contact the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services if:

- * You want general Medicare information;

- * You have questions about Medicare Part A or Part B coverage;

- * You want information about Medicare patients' rights and appeal rights;

- * You need information about nursing homes or

Medicare health plan choices in your area.

If you want more information about Medicare you should visit the website at www.medicare.gov or call 1-800-633-4227 (TTY 1-877-486-2048).

Another convenient reference source for Medicare information is the Medicare & You handbook. If you need a copy, you can call the Medicare toll-free number at 1-800-633-4227 (TTY 1-state - teenagers who were not wearing seatbelts - may be the impetus the House Transportation Committee needs to see the necessity of a primary seatbelt law. These are needless deaths that cause immeasurable heartbreak to the young people's families.

Seatbelts

As House member Dr. Jim Barnett said at a primary seatbelt rally last January, "Anyone who has once had to tell a family that their child was killed in a car crash has learned the hardest way possible to support what can best be done to prevent such senseless deaths."

Childhood highway safety proposals will continue to be important to every pediatrician, every emergency room doctor, every trauma surgeon in the state - as well as to the majority of Mississippians - until they are on the books.

Maybe this next session will be the one where the House Transportation Committee hears from enough grieving parents, enough experts and professionals, and enough concerned citizens in their communities to decide that too many children and adults have already died on Mississippi highways - we need a primary seatbelt law.

Dr. Payne is the president of the Mississippi Chapter of the American Academy.

Walmart to host Blood Drive Dec. 18

Walmart of Waveland will sponsor a blood drive on Saturday, December 18, from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. The blood center will have their bloodmobile parked in front of the store.

During the holiday season, blood donations decrease; however, the need for blood increases. You may never know whose life you touch, but you can be certain that you have given a precious gift. A chance for tomorrow. Anyone 17 years of age and older, weighing 110 pounds or more, in good health, and with some form of identification can give blood.

All donors will receive a T-Shirt and their name in the hat for a $25.00 gift card from Walmart.

Let's remember: When it comes to blood, it is truly better to give than to receive.

Christmas Seals continue to fight lung disease in Mississippi

This holiday season, Mississippians will receive a special mailing from the American Lung Association of Mississippi, the Christmas Seals. A tradition for 100 years, the Christmas Seals are a way to help in the fight against lung disease. The American Lung Association uses the funds raised for the education and research of diseases like asthma, and the nation's number four killer, chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD).

Christmas Seals began in 1907, when a Delaware woman named Emily Bissell was asked by a local tuberculosis (TB) hospital to help raise $300 to keep the hospital running. Because of her experience with the Red Cross, Mrs. Bissell agreed. She based the idea for the Seals on a Danish man who had used Christmas stamps to raise money for TB.

Sales started slow, but with the help of a local newspaper Mrs. Bissell raised more than 10 times the amount needed, thus creating a national tradition.

The Christmas Seals have evolved into a symbol of encouragement and hope for thousands of people with lung disease. The Seals have been designed by some of the nation's most talented artists, such as Norman Rockwell. They have even been designed by children under twelve years old.

Each holiday season, Christmas Seals are mailed out to thousands of Mississippi homes. They give people the opportunity to join in the fight against lung disease by making a donation to the American Lung Association of Mississippi. Eighty-seven percent of each dollar donated is used in Mississippi to help in education, research, and patient assistance for lung disease such as asthma, TB, bronchitis, and COPD.

One of the programs supported is the Asthma Camp, held each summer in Gallman, Mississippi. The camp provides an opportunity for Mississippi children with asthma to not only learn more about how to manage their disease, but also have a lot of fun.

"I had a great time at camp and learned so much," said 9-year old Brandon Shelby of Raymond, Mississippi. Brandon is just one of the many Mississippians helped as a direct result of Christmas Seals donations.

To find out more about Christmas Seals or lung disease contact the American Lung Association of Mississippi at 1-800-506-4872.

God saw you getting tired
And a cure was not to be.
So He put his arms around you
And whispered
"Come to Me!"

With tearful eyes we watched you and saw you pass away.
Although we loved you dearly,
We could not make you stay.
A golden heart stopped beating,
troubled lungs stopped breathing,
hard-working hands at rest.
God broke our hearts to prove
He only takes the best.
Each day - right from the start
You will be forever near
For you live within our hearts.
We love you
and we will miss you
but we find comfort in knowing that we will see you again someday.

DuPont revises waste management plans

DuPont DeLisle has revised its previously announced plans to construct a waste management unit on the plant site, according to plant manager Pat Nichols.

"After an exhaustive review, we have determined that we can locate the unit within our long-standing solid waste management area," said Nichols. "Previously, we had sought permission from the US Army Corps of Engineers to use 24 acres of forested wetlands. Under the new proposal, the unit will not be constructed in wetlands," she said.

DuPont has informed both the Mississippi Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ) and the US Army Corps of Engineers of this revised plan.

"DuPont's operations at the DeLisle plant are continually governed by our company's core values which include environmental stewardship," said Nichols. "This core value demands that while we manufacture products that are valued by society, we do so while minimizing our environmental footprint, or impact," she said.

"While DuPont continues to believe that the previously announced plans for the unit are both environmentally and structurally sound, our commitment to reducing our environmental footprint, coupled with comments and recommendations from our community's citizens, led us to seek possible alternatives," she said.

The revised plan calls for the waste management unit to be constructed within the plant's existing 180-acre waste management site on the plant's property by reconfiguring three existing units. The new unit will be used to store nonhazardous coke and ore solids. DuPont has been placing this type material in units like the one proposed since 1980.

"As with the former plan, we will use the latest technology to build the new unit to exacting environmental and structural requirements that also must be approved and that will remain under the guidance of MDEQ," said Nichols.

Nichols also noted that the revised plan addresses additional criteria DuPont set for the original unit. "As with the original plan, the revised plan will not be disruptive to the community and will ensure that DuPont minimizes our environmental footprint," she said.

DuPont's DeLisle plant is a major world producer of titanium dioxide (TiO₂). The plant, which began operations in 1979 and employs approximately 1000 persons, uses state-of-the-art technology in the manufacture of TiO₂, a pigment used in paints, plastics, and textiles as a whitening or brightening agent.

Hawks split with Hattiesburg; Crescents blank Greene County

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

On Friday the Hancock Hawks and the Hattiesburg Tigers split a pair of games in high school basketball action in Kiln.

The Lady Hawks improved to 11-4 overall and 1-0 in region play with a 55-34 win over the Lady Tigers.

Hancock Lady Hawks head coach Pam Slayton commented, "We have some good moments in games and we have some bad ones. Right now, we are not protecting the ball as well as we need to. The turnover ratio is our main concern on the team. We will become a better team once we take care of the turnover situation. Tonight, Hattiesburg played a good game. We executed a little better than we have been doing but the turnovers still hurt us."

The Lady Hawks and the Lady Tigers were tied after one period of play 12-12 but by halftime Hancock had surged to a 26-18 lead.

Ashley Boehnel led Hancock with 24 points followed by Erica Moran with 10 points.

In the boys game, it was a fast-paced and exciting game from tipoff to final buzzer.

The Hawks (3-10) jumped out to a 5-0 lead but Hattiesburg rallied to claim a 20-11 advantage by the end of the period.

In the second period, the Hawks missed some key shots which gave Hattiesburg a 37-19 lead at intermission.

The Tigers went on a 8-0 run to start the third period and the game looked bleak for the Hawks. But, someone forgot to tell them that. With Hattiesburg up 57-

34 going into the final period, Hancock rallied around each other and put tremendous pressure on the larger Hattiesburg team.

Drew Malley hit the first of his three treys in the period with 6:43 remaining to make the score 57-39. Ryan Chauvin followed with a bucket down low to make the score 59-44. Then, two consecutive three-pointers by Malley and the score was suddenly 59-47.

Chauvin cut Hattiesburg's lead to 59-49 with a charity shot with 3:03 remaining. Hattiesburg tightened up and went on a 6-0 run to seal the game with less than two minutes remaining. The game ended with the final score of 65-50.

Hancock head coach Michael Ladner stated, "These players are working as hard as they can, especially in the games. As of late, we have been able to press other teams which has opened some opportunities for us. We need to work harder in practice to keep our conditioning up. I am very proud of their effort. Tonight, in the first half we could have helped ourselves a little bit but we turned the ball over too much and took a few shots that we did not need to take. This team really hustles and I am very proud of them."

Drew Malley led the Hawks with 16 points, 7 rebounds and 5 steals. Steven Pollard added 10 points and Josh Malone 9 points.

In earlier basketball action, the Mercy Cross-Lady Crusaders defeated the OLA Crescents 50-37. Scoring details for the game were unavailable.

In soccer action, the OLA

Crescents (3-3-2) defeated Greene County 6-0 on December 7th. Lauren Renz tallied the hat trick while Jane Covington, Meghan Flynt and Emily Hoff all added one goal each.

Cassy Schaffer, Margaret Hadden, Meghan Flynt and Lauren Renz each tallied an assist in the win.

Annie Giardino and Amelia Simpson combined for the shutout in goal while Lauren Rittiner turned in a fine defensive performance on the defensive line.

In junior varsity soccer action, the Crescents (6-0) blanked Gulfport 5-0 on December 8th. Cassy Schaffer scored twice while Kaitlyn Bosley, Lindsay Benvenutti and Karli Renz all scored once. Megan Bagwell and Rebecca Werner each recorded two assists.

Amelia Simpson had the shutout in goal.

In junior high soccer, OLA remained undefeated at 3-0-1 with an 8-0 win over Greene County on December 7th.

Caitlyn Church scored three goals and Jennifer Leung had two goals. Other goals were added by Lizzy Miller, Jordan Boone and Mischa Tice.

Kelsey Cannon added two assists while Maddie Michelli, Jennifer Loiacano, Ashley Fournier, and Taylor Benvenutti all had one each.

Mischa Tice and Helen Burnett combined for the shutout in goal.

"This year, we introduced a new volunteer awards program during the Annual Meeting," he said. Each committee chairman recognized one Chamber member as Committee Volunteer of the Year. From the Member Services Committee chaired by Linda Graffeo of Hancock Bank, Frances Graves of BEADS R US was recognized for her work to strengthen member relations.

The Beautification Committee chaired by Ellis C. Cuevas of the Sea Coast Echo and Betsy Ashman of Hancock Insurance, lauded Lynn Bell for her service to support beautification efforts in Hancock County. Heath Long of Mississippi Polymer Technologies was recognized as Volunteer of the Year from the Communications Committee for his work on the Chamber website to enhance communications to market member businesses; and, Allison Anderson, AIA, as the Community Development Volunteer of the Year, lauded for her work as both consultant and community volunteer on the Greenways Plan for Hancock County.

Jody Compretta passed the gavel to John Chaszar of Casino Magic Bay St. Louis. Chaszar recognized Compretta as not only a leader in Hancock County but statewide. This year, Compretta will be recognized as one of Mississippi's Outstanding Leaders Under 40. Chaszar and Compretta both recognized Shari Breeden, CPA of Charles B. Benvenuti, CPA, PA, as Hancock Chamber Volunteer of the Year. Breeden has served as volunteer Treasurer of the Hancock Chamber for the past two years, during a financially challenging time for the Chamber. She was lauded for her work in bringing financial stability to the Chamber over the past two years. Both volunteer leaders were presented with a special gift from the Ken Murphy photographic collection: My South Coast Home.

The education committee, chaired by Dr. Sherry Ponder, recognized Dr. William Lewis as Educator of the Year; and, the Bay High Interact Club was recognized as Student Volunteers of the Year. Board members who completed their three year term were: Amy Corr of Hancock Bank; Linda Graffeo of Hancock Bank; Randy Ponder of the Sea Coast Echo; Mary M. Perkins of Hancock County Library System; Myron Webb of NASA-Stennis Space Center; and, Jody Compretta of Patients Choice. Those board members who completed their one year presidential appointment were also recognized for their service: Hal Leftwich of Hancock Medical Center; Clement Ladner of Coast Electric Power Association; Marilyn Finch of Whitney National Bank; and Rea Montjoy of Select Administrative Services.

Chaszar outlined five major goals for the Chamber to achieve by the end of 2005: to advocate the swift completion of Texas Flat Road; to establish a central point to share skill level sets available and/or needed, such as a job resources bank; to forge alliances between Pearl River Community College and area High Schools; to work with government and business to establish incentives for beautification of Highways 603 and 90; and, to establish a community resource center through the website. To accomplish these goals, he plans to add one new staff position to the Chamber; focus committees on actions to generate business and value back to members; engage every member of the board to lead one project and/or serve on one committee this year; and, to establish a small business committee to focus on the needs of small businesses and foster retail development.

Chaszar said, "The ultimate vision is to work toward making Hancock County a thriving and vibrant community, nationally recognized as a superior place to live, work, retire and play."

Serving with Chaszar as officers of the Hancock Chamber during 2005 are: David Mauffray, Mississippi

Power Company, Vice-President; Rea Montjoy of Select Administrative Services, Treasurer; Colleen Read, da Beach House, Officer; John P. Baxter of Hancock Bank, Officer; and, Tish Williams as Secretary to the Board of Executive Director of the Hancock Chamber.

This event was sponsored by: Casino Magic Bay St. Louis, Sea Coast Echo, Sunshine Pages by EATEL, Balch & Bingham, Charles B. Benvenuti, CPA, PA, Coast Electric Power Association, Dupont Delisle, Mississippi Power Company, Prestige Printing, Cellular South.

students and teachers the future of Hancock County and Mississippi."

Barbour said that smart spending and reducing the deficit were equally important, however. He likened the current problem with excessive spending in the state to raising children, saying that excessive spending needed to be quickly brought under control.

"Sometimes, you have to give a child what it needs instead of what it wants," he said.

Barbour also swore in Christopher "Packer" Ladner and Rose Acker, two new members of the Hancock County School Board, from districts one and two respectively.

Barbour and Hancock County School Board President Larry Seal also presented departing board members Larry Peterson and Cheryl Bennett with certificates of appreciation for their service. Peterson had served on the board for 12 years, and Bennett had served for 13.

Barbour's visit to these two Hancock County institutions marked the end of a four-day trip to the Gulf Coast, in which Barbour and his staff visited Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, George, Greene and Stone Counties.

Annexation -- Bay blasts Waveland receiving in all areas.

But in order to make it financially feasible to provide those services outlined in the Bay's annexation implementation plan, Favre said, the city needs to be awarded both sides of the Hwy. 603 business corridor.

"If we split Hwy. 603 it becomes questionable whether or not we can afford to provide services in the rest of the area ... without amending those services," said Favre.

Projections in the Bay's plan show the city operating in the black the first year of annexation, 2005, then at a deficit for the following three years, with the city heading back into the black in 2009. In that year some current debt services will be paid, Favre said.

The city has undergone some $20 million in capital improvement projects during his term of office, Favre said, reduced utility rates and brought in the casino which generates about $3 million in revenues to the city each year.

Favre said Bay consultants used audited information from the year 2003 and budget information from the year 2004, as well as historical data from the tax assessor's office to project figures for future assessed valuation. Much of a city's ability to borrow for capital improvement projects comes from assessed valuation.

Some of Waveland's projected figures prepared by CPA Christy Smilek are off base, Favre said, with 2005 projections of assessed value set at $69 million, when, he said, information from the tax collectors' office show that a more accurate projection would be around $60 million. With the first year's figures off Favre said, each preceding year's projections would be affected also.

Favre and Bay annexation attorney Jerry Mills said that, according to Waveland's special charter, with a $60 million assessed valuation, they would already be at the limit of their bonding capacity, with a recently passed $5 million plus bond issue. The special city charter allows for bond indebtedness of 7 percent of the city's assessed valuation, said Mills, unless an election is held to approve the bond, then the city's charter allows a bond indebtedness of 10 percent of the assessed value. In most cities a 15 percent margin is allowed.

Also included in proceedings was questioning of witnesses by Lynn Bell, who is representing two groups in opposition of the Bay St. Louis annexation. Judge James Thomas is allowing Bell to participate in the trial.

On Friday the court heard testimony from Assistant Police Chief Dave Stepro and Fire Chief Bobby Gavagnie. Both painted a picture of cooperation between the two cities, as well as county law enforcement and fire services. The annexation area would enjoy a lowered fire rating of 5 if annexed by the city, said Gavagnie, lowering fire insurance rates by hundreds of dollars on most homes, depending on assessed value.

In a recap of Wednesday's testimony: The city of Waveland rested its case on Wednesday with city engineer Bruce Newton and urban planning expert Jimmie Goureaux coming back to the stand. Counsel for Bay St. Louis presented a motion to dismiss Waveland's annexation request and asked Judge Thomas to recess early to prepare for tomorrow's witnesses.

Bay annexation attorney Jerry Mills questioned Newton extensively on maps presented in evidence. Mills asked Newton if, based on the maps, he could tell if annexation lines would result in any split houses or lots. Newton said that the tax maps Mills was presenting were not accurate enough to allow him to answer.

Newton said he had not actually driven all the boundaries of Waveland's proposed annexation area to see if the lines split any property.

He said boundaries were based largely on section lines and roads paired with legal descriptions. Representatives from both cities will take a drive into the field to look at property and boundary lines before the cases go to the judge for a decision.

Newton read excerpts from a report from the state health department which stated that Waveland's water system was working well and had adequate water pressure.

Mills then asked him to read an excerpt from the same report which said that Waveland's water system was operating at a 94 percent capacity. Newton said he had seen the report for the first time on the stand and could not confirm figures. The report went on to recommend that the addition of new customers be limited until an upgrade could be completed.

Newton said upgrades to the water system will be underway just after New Year's and be completed in early 2006.

As the Bay began its testimony, Mills asked Thomas to dismiss Waveland's case because proof of notice of a special meeting held to approve the annexation ordinance was not referenced in the minutes of the meeting. Mills said that because of this any business conducted at the meeting was invalid. Thomas took the motion under advisement before recessing for the day.

Christmas Pageantry

Students from St. Stanislaus College and Our Lady Academy participate in a Christmas pageant Wednesday at SSC's student chapel.

St. Stanislaus College hosted its sixth annual Caroling in the Student Chapel on Wednesday, December 8, 2003, on the SSC campus, according to Brother Ronald Hingle, SC, principal.

The seasonal event was sponsored by the St. Stanislaus Activities Department and began with a welcome and opening prayer by Mrs. Susan Estrade, assistant principal for supervision and activities.

Mr. Dan Zwerg, SSC's technology coordinator, served as master of ceremonies. Mr. Jordan Roy, academic assistant principal, and Brother Marcel Riviere, and Mr. Dan Zwerg led the carols.

The Christmas Pageant, a live re-telling of the Christmas story, served as the focus for the evening. The players included Ruth Ann Tucker, Tony Echevarria, Laura Chapman, Jennifer Roy, Querina Shubert, Nathan Corr, Joseph Klein, Nick Noto, Harold Cann, Patrick Ferguson, and Bryce Shands.

Kevin Becnel, Eric Cranford, Ben Leiker, Michael Roy, Brennan Thomas, and Matthew Vollenweider read Scriptures.

Mr. Tom Ackerman, Spanish instructor, and a group of international students who speak Spanish, lead the group in Feliz Navidad. Senior Michael Roy performed a solo in French, Il est ne le divin Enfant. The SSC Band Ensemble, directed by Jimmy O'Caïn, performed several numbers.

After the closing of the program the students, parents, and guests who attended were invited to gather in the James E. Smith Student Mall for hot chocolate and cookies.

St. Stanislaus College is a Catholic residency and day school for young men in grades 6-12. The school fosters character formation and integrates faith development within a curriculum which is primarily college preparatory.

Filming

"During my investigation of the incident, I discovered that Smith had allegedly filmed a juvenile in a bathroom at their residence on Lee Town Rd," Roan said.

The allegations were made by Smith's wife. Roan said the allegations were supported by physical evidence.

The victim was a friend of Smith's wife, and not related to him.

Smith is currently being held at the Hancock County Justice facility on a $25,000 bond. The case is still under investigation, and further charges are pending.

"There is at least one other victim," Roan said.

Holiday Advice: Pets don't make the best gifts

THE SEA COAST ECHO
This season, many shoppers will buy a dog or cat to give to a friend or loved one. Their motivations vary. Some will buy an animal on impulse, others because they're caught up in the spirit of the season, or some just because the doggie looks irresistible in the pet shop window. None of these are the right reasons to add a new pet to the family.

Adopting or buying a pet is a serious, long-term commitment and a decision that needs input from everyone who would be caring for the animal. It is important that the primary pet caregiver — whether it's you, a friend or loved one — is 100 percent involved in the adoption process. All too often these holiday "gifts" are returned to shelters or cast aside when the recipient finds he really can't care for the animal.

"It's important to remember that animal shelters and their innocent charges will suffer the effects of impulse purchases of pets as gifts," says Nancy Peterson, a companion animal issues specialist for The Humane Society of the United States (HSUS).

"Deciding whether one has the time and resources to add a pet to the family needs to be made after careful thought. We need to remember that pets can't simply be returned or discarded like a broken toy."

Before adopting a pet, the HSUS says you should ask yourself some questions.

1. What type of animal would have a personality most compatible with a person or family?
2. Who would be the primary caregiver of the pet?
3. How much will it cost to feed and provide veterinary care?
4. Who would look after the animal during trips?
5. Could someone be allergic to the pet?

WAIT PATIENTLY FOR THE PET

Instead of buying a puppy or kitten as a gift, consider waiting until after the holiday to adopt a pet. Here are some ways to build excitement for a post-holiday adoption.

1. Give a loved one a "gift certificate" from a local shelter, a snapshot of a shelter pet, or even a stuffed animal representing a shelter pet. All of these can be used as "passports" to adopt an animal later.

2. Wrap some useful pet supplies — a dog bowl, a cat collar, a scratching post, or an exercise wheel for a hamster or gerbil (animals that are popular during the holidays). You'll not only promote responsible adoption, but provide a little fun, too.

3. After the holidays, if your loved ones decide they are willing and able to adopt a pet, take them to the local shelter where they can use their "passport" to

Angel's Trumpets enjoy a banner year

Southern Gardening

by Norman Winter
MSU Horticulturist

The prolonged fall with no frosts has made this a banner year for Angel's Trumpets. It seemed those at the Truck Crops Experiment Station were a little behind others at first, but now I see these pre-holiday treasures everywhere.

The giant, trumpet-shaped flowers in apricot yellow, pink or white gracefully hang along branches in Mississippi landscapes as if waiting for Gabriel to choose one for an upcoming announcement.

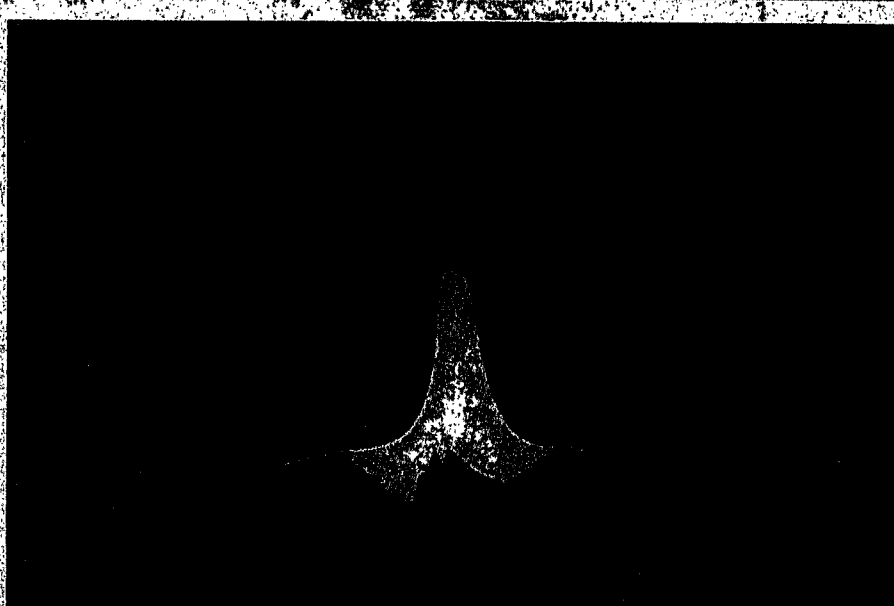

The plants are known botanically as Brugmansia, but around here we just call them Angel's Trumpets. They come from Ecuador, but they couldn't look more at home in Mississippi. The most beautiful of Angel's Trumpets reach 12 to 18 inches in length and make a statement in the landscape. It is hard to believe these plants are related to tomatoes and peppers.

We often have a few early blooms, but they really strut their stuff in late summer and fall. This plant gets Combine them with large bananas for a tropical appeal, or try them with Purple Hearts or red coleus like Burgundy Sun, New Orleans Red or Plum Parfait.

I put the cup down on the side table. The coffee was delicious. The aroma was rich and the flavor was strong with a hearty, almost nutty, musky flavor. I felt good. An inner voice began urging, "If it's so good, say something. She's your wife. Compliment her."

I looked over to where Stella was reading a magazine. "Honey, you've outdone yourself. This coffee is perfect. That's the best cup I've had in a while."

Stella put down her reading and stared at me.

Her look told me I had said something wrong. My warm feeling started to dissolve.

"Why? What was wrong with last night's coffee?"

"Nothing! Nothing! It's just that tonight's coffee is unusually good. I mean last night's coffee was good, too. Very good, in fact. I liked it."

It was no use. I was babbling.

"You didn't say anything about it being good last night? You know I way every night."

It had started.

Stella and I have been married for almost thirty years and our relationship is extremely good. I don't think I could have found a person that I would have better enjoyed spending those thirty years with nor in fact the next thirty. People are people and it's a miracle at times when two people find that their partnership is the one best suited for them to spend a life with.

But there are times. Now in our case these times usually have to do with our trying to communicate with each other. Usually it goes quite well, but occasionally like my trying to find the right words of praise for a single cup of coffee, things take a right angle turn for disaster.

Sometimes she or I find we are arguing over what can be best described as a misplaced comma in the early exchange of conversation. There occurs a snap in syntax, an unin-

High schools advance to state competition

THE SEA COAST ECHO

This past weekend, schools in Mississippi participated in the high school drama festivals held around the State. Festivals were held at Mississippi State University (Northern Division), University of Southern Mississippi (Southwestern Region) and Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College - Perkinston Campus (Southeastern Region). The top three schools from each region will advance to the Mississippi Theatre Association's State festival to be held January 13-16, 2005 at Meridian Community College.

The schools advancing to the State competition and festival include:

From the Southwestern Region:
Oak Grove High School;
Hancock High School;
Lawrence County High School

These nine schools will compete for the top award at the State level and the opportunity to advance to the Southeastern Theatre Conference (SETC) to be held in March. Student participating in the festival will be able to view all nine productions, listen to critiques of each production by theatre professionals, attend workshops, audition for Mississippi College/Universities and watch productions from a number of community theatres from around the State.

"The three festivals were very well attended and based on the reports from the regional festival directors the turn out and the talent was exception this year," said Stephen Cunetto, Executive Director, Mississippi Theatre Association.

"This year marked the 40th Anniversary of the High School Drama Festival held at Mississippi State University," said Tonya Hays, President of the Mississippi Theatre Association. "Dr. Dominic J. Cunetto, Professor Emeritus, Mississippi State University Department of Communication was the founder of the High School Drama Festival."

He started the event in 1963 to foster the educational experience of high school students and to assist in promoting the awareness and need for the arts-based programs in the school systems. As the festival grew it was agreed that a second one would be held at USM. We are proud to announce that this year a third festival was held at the MS Gulf Coast Community College-Perkinston," she added.

See <http://www.mta-online.org/> for more information on the Mississippi Theatre Association.

Garden -- Angel's Trumpet

passed from friend to friend, but garden centers in Mississippi sell quite a few. Revel in its beauty, but remember the plant is poisonous when eaten.

To grow yours, choose a site in full to partial sun and plant in well-drained, organic-rich beds. If you wait until next year, don't plant until after the last frost and the soil has warmed. You may, however, stumble on some good opportunities now.

I normally say that protection from the wind and mid-afternoon sun make for a prettier plant, but there are plenty of terrific displays around that can make me eat those words. I recently saw a small tree in a large container that was loaded with blooms, demonstrating that you can enjoy this plant just about anywhere.

During a summer like we have been experiencing, supplemental water may be the most rigorous requirement. Angel's Trumpets only require feeding with light applications of a slow-released, balanced fertilizer about three times during the growing season.

In central Mississippi, they have had no problem returning from the winter, but an extremely rare, very hard freeze may be a different story. Prune in early spring after the last frost, cutting back to 6 or 8 inches above the ground. Plants will come back from the base with vigor.

In north Mississippi, plant in a protected microclimate around the house, grow in a container and move indoors, or take cuttings in the fall to root. They root easily, and it is not hard to hold small plants over the winter.

At the Truck Crops Experiment Station, we are growing them with large bananas, which really adds a tropical appeal. In another bed, they are surrounded by Purple Heart, which looks exceptional with the apricot colors of the trumpets. Another great companion would be red coleus like Burgundy Sun, New Orleans Red or Plum Parfait.

At the risk of shocking you lovers of the Angel's Trumpet, I must say the varieties Grand Marnier, Charles Grimaldi and Frosty Pink are some selections that others have deemed better or at least worthy of adding to your collection. Finding these plants and others is what makes gardening in the South the most rewarding outdoor experience.

While awaiting the first freeze and doing Christmas shopping, enjoy the Angel's Trumpet as a holiday plant.

Views -- a failure to communicate

tentional reading of what ordinarily would be thought to be an innocent remark. When this happens, and I well admit it does not occur all that often, she and I start tumbling down a rather torturous path of outbursts, yells and a long silence.

And yet when our tempers have cooled, and we are both are trying to figure out how to grab the other and call it over, done, quits, we can't really know what started the discord to begin with.

Mishaps like that between nations have started wars. I was told once that England and the United States are two great nations divided by a common language. I believe it. I mean if Stella and I can argue, why not a little thing like the war of 1812.

A friend of mine once told me that he always knew when his wife was pregnant. This knowledge was usually revealed rather dramatically at the supper table. He would pick up a knife and a piece of bread and ask his wife to pass the butter. She would then jump and yell at him to get his own d butter and run crying into the bedroom.

Puff! Revelation! She was pregnant.

He said it was more accurate than those pregnancy tests they sell at the pharmacy. They now have four children, so I guess he has had to get his own butter several times. I suppose it is a small price he has to pay for inexpensive home medication.

The problem with the spoken word is that there is usually a subsurface flow of understanding that goes along with it. There is a rhythm, a tempo of meaning that colors the surface chatter and delivers the joy or sorrow of what is meant by the person speaking and the person listening.

When the speaker and listener are not joined by that surface flow there occurs those small mishaps such as our cup of coffee and that is unfortunate.

But when there is a true connection then there can be those supreme moments of feeling between people of thoughts, ideas, fears, aspirations, moods, joys, love, life...

"I have a dream!"
"We band of brothers!"
"I do."
"You did what?"
"You're next."
"Congratulations!"
"I love you."

Happy Anniversary, Stella

Our Heavenly Treasures

Our moods sometime seem as fleeting as the wind; here one moment and gone the next. We can be in a good mood one minute only to find ourselves feeling sour or blue shortly thereafter. Fortunately, the bad moods usually pass just as quickly as they come. Some psychologists theorize that moods are related to our stockpile of resources, and that while our resources are growing, we tend to be in good moods, whereas dwindling resources can trigger bad moods. On this view, when our circle of friends is growing, our investments are making money, and the sun is shining on our crops, we tend to be in positive moods; but, when our friends leave us, our bank accounts dwindle, and the sun is nowhere to be seen, we are more likely to be in a bad mood. So what can we do to deliver us from our bad moods? Be productive. Do some housework, exercise, work on neglected or damaged relationships, and take stock of our material and spiritual resources. And perhaps most important of all, remember that our most valuable treasure is stored in heaven. So, don't neglect your relationship with God. In the final accounting, our bank account won't matter nearly as much as our relationship with God.

Do not lay up for yourselves treasures on earth... But lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven... For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also.

AREA DEVOTIONAL & DIRECTORY PAGES

Are you too macho to be healthy?

Men have a very unhealthy habit of summarily dismissing the frequent complaints of women and their numerous visits to a doctor as "female problems." Many even jeer and poke fun at the apparent weaknesses of the fair sex. Well, have you men noticed recently that women ultimately have milder medical problems and live longer than we men do?

Naturally, due to their destiny as multipliers and keepers of human population, women do have a number of physical assets and complications which men do not have. Yet, it must be noted that this fact of life is not a debit but a full-blown credit. Thank God!

So, men, do you think it is a female-like weakness to pay close attention to your aches and pains, and to have a doctor check them out to see whether there is a problem in the making? Do you think it is less macho to take care of yourselves as women do?

Seemingly, it would appear less masculine to check in frequently with a doctor about aches, pains, poor sleep patterns and a slew of questionable symptoms. This would lead one to the immediate conclusion that such a person is sickly. After all, a truly masculine man thrives on adversity of all sorts and laughs in the teeth of pain.

But by what criterion are you to say that a sickly person is not masculine but weak? One could grant that there is an argument for physical weakness here. However, our common-sense choices in favor of health are nothing less than rational signs of strength.

You might want to keep in mind that many sickly people who have no choice but to see their doctors frequently come out ahead in health matters, not because of strong genes and a sound physical constitution, but because of preventive and remedial medicine.

Eugenio Pacelli, Pope Pius XII, is a well-known example of the sickly who survive most of their peers. Almost rejected by his seminary superiors as too frail and sickly, he was reluctantly carried throughout his studies and eventually ordained to the priesthood.

The rest, of course, is history. Frail little Pacelli went on to become a bishop, a cardinal and finally Pope Pius XII. Living to the respectable age of 82, Pius XII reigned from 1939 to 1958, much to the surprise of those who thought he was too frail to be a priest.

Men, doctors and other health scientists have been studying you from a distance, and they have found you as sadly wanting in health care as you are in common sense. How could you be so foolish as to follow the insanity of the attitudes and tenets of machismo?

"I never go to a doctor! I've never been to a hospital!" is the improbable boast of many myopic, blundering males. Sure, you have never been to a hospital, and when you do go chances are it will likely be both your first and last visit.

"Denial!" the doctors say, is the main flaw in the makeup of supposedly strong, macho males. Men, most of you are living in denial, displaying yourselves as living examples of health and strength while gambling on diseases which can cripple and kill you. Is it worth your health and life to bask in the supposed glory of your toughness?

But your problem with male denial is that it is so implicit, so subtle, so unnoticed, that it is almost undetectable. This denial is intimately intertwined with the so-called male culture of toughness and durability. Which easily leads men to rationalize chest pains, arm and leg pains, rising blood pressure, runaway pulse, dizziness and loss of energy.

Even where the devastating symptoms of diabetes, hypertension and heart disease are evident, I have confronted male relatives and friends and found them still thrusting forth the blustering, phony front of their masculinity and toughness.

However, there is another ominous threat to the physical well-being of males which is just as much, if not more, damaging to their health as is the macho thing: It is the ugly hook or addiction which makes them slaves of fatty foods, sugars and salts.

Outside the church last Sunday, I listened to a wife recount the litany of physical woes which afflict her husband. He flinched with each new revelation. Seeing an opening, I dared to broach the off-limits, taboo subject of food.

"What kinds of foods do you eat?" I asked.

"Everything!" he returned with a sharpness that let me know he would not be moved.

"You have to be kidding!" I offered. "If you drop off from just the worst part of the meats, fats, sweets and salts, your sugar count and blood pressure would normalize."

His eloquent answer was not to make any further comment, but simply to smile wryly and roll his eyes in such a manner that everyone knew there would be no drop-off in his selection and consumption of whatever foods met his fancy.

"I don't understand it!" I told him. "If I knew that I could rid myself of diabetes, high blood pressure, arthritis and a bit of heart disease simply by easing up on the red meat, the other fatty meats, dairy products, sweets and salts, nothing could stop me from immediately abandoning all these and replacing them with vegetables, fruits and nuts."

My friend blinked once more, looking askance at me and gradually picking his way toward his vehicle. Without a word, he was affirming quite strongly that he wanted no part of whatever weird foolishness I was trying to pass off on him.

So, men, it is the macho thing and it is the food thing which threaten your health. A disproportionate number of men, who have no business hanging around a barbecue pit, fancy themselves king of the grill and avail themselves lavishly of their finished product.

And you have another problem of being in love with the large, burly look, even though parts of your body may have a sloppy look. Being big and having the husky, burly look is such a treasured thing that you are unwilling to forgo any food, lest you become puny.

Thus, most of you men go on eating dangerously, living on the edge of disaster with regard to your health. If you do nothing else for Advent, pull yourselves together and make a radical change for the better in managing the quality and quantity of your food intake, and in having your heart, blood pressure and prostate checked at least annually.

Scripture Says...

By Ed Young

God will save us — don't listen to TV

He who dwelleth in the secret place of the Most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty.

I will say unto the Lord, He is my refuge and my fortress, my God; in Him will I trust.

Surely He will deliver me from the snare of the fowler and from the noisome pestilence.

He shall cover me with His feathers, and under His wings shall I trust; His truth shall be my shield and buckler.

I shall not be afraid for the terror by night nor the arrow that flieth by day.

Nor for the pestilence that walks in darkness nor for the destruction that wastes at noonday.

A thousand shall fall at my side, and ten thousand at my right hand but it shall not come near me. Psalms 91:1-7

Because I have made the Lord, who is my refuge, even the Most High my habitation. Verse nine.

Take therefore no thought of tomorrow. In these plain words, Jesus tells us, "Do not give a thought, do not give a worry about what might or might not happen tomorrow."

A Christian who is abiding in the Lord must realize God has he or she in the palm of His hand. Nothing absolutely nothing can snatch the Christian out of His loving, caring, protecting grasp.

Christian just smile when you hear all the bad news from the media, because you know God's got everything under control. Halleluiah!

for the Week

Jesus can cure the holiday blues

We all get up for the holidays. If our expectations are too high, we are let down with a jolt. The result can be the old holiday blues.

So what is the problem? We look for joy in all the wrong places.

We look for holiday joy in the glitter of lights, in gaily wrapped packages, in all of the material things of the season. We also expect family reunions to be ultra spectacular. We especially expect this time of year to transform other relationships into Cinderella experiences! Then comes the crash. Our expectations are not met! Our traditional home cannot live up to the glitter on TV. Those other family members turn out to be real people as we are. The fantasy bubble bursts in our faces! Amazingly enough, the Bible warns us in advance! "Thus I considered all my activities which my hands had done and the labor which I had exerted, and behold all was vanity and a striving after wind and there was no profit under the sun" (Ecclesiastes 2:11). Yes, without God, all our expectations, all our striving, all our relationships, are empty. When we look back, it seems as though we have been striving after the wind. This holiday season can wind up the same way if you have unrealistic expectations! So, get some perspective! Remember we celebrate the birth of Jesus at this time of year! He is God in human form and He is calling you to believe in Him! Why? Without Him, this season has no meaning. It is glitter and hype, which turns out to be "vanity and a striving after wind." To avoid the holiday blues this season, turn away from the glitter and hype! Turn to Jesus Christ!

Corn, on the Cob

Sheryl DeStarkey's kindergarten class at Charles B. Murphy Elementary School in Pearlington recently learned about the importance of Thanksgiving by preparing a traditional feast, complete with green beans they snapped and corn they shucked. Other activities the students completed for the festive meal with the help of parent volunteers included baking cornbread muffins and sunflower cookies, making mini pumpkin pies and marshmallow turkey treats, decorating cupcakes and fruit kabobs, and creating other lunch edibles.

Students should apply now for NRL summer program

THE SEA COAST ECHO
Now is the time to apply for the Naval Research Laboratory's high school summer employment program, the Science and Engineering Apprentice Program (SEAP).

SEAP places students in a one-on-one relationship with a scientific or technical mentor in a laboratory environment for eight weeks during the summer. Students explore typhoon events, use high tech computer programs to study mine warfare, analyze sediments on high powered electron microscopes, study data on water formations, design 3-dimensional numerical models, and much more.

NRL has been participating in this program for over 10 years and finds that it is very beneficial to the mentors as well as to the students. "The students bring a lot to the work place," said Pam Posey, a computer scientist and long-time supporter of the program. "Their enthusiasm and eagerness to learn is refreshing and they often bring a new perspective to the projects we're working on."

About a third of former SEAP students have been hired directly from this program into the Student Temporary Employment Program -- a sign that the program is an asset to the Laboratory.

Requirements for the program are: high school students interested in science and/or engineering; 16 years of age by June 1, 2005; U.S. citizenship required (Permanent Resident Alien status will also be considered by some labs); security clearance background checks may be required.

Applications for this year's program, which runs from June 6 through July 29, may be found online at www.armanagement.org then follow the SEAP link. Additional information may be obtained from Mariann Bleazard at 801.273.8911 or mariann@armanagement.org, or by contacting the NRL SSC SEAP Coordinator, Becky Rotundo, at 228.688.5328.

Information about NRL may be found online at <http://www.nrlssc.navy.mil>. Students should also check with their school guidance counselor for information.

Scholarship applications available

The applications for the American Legion Scholarships are now available. They may be obtained by calling the Chairman John Wilkerson at 467-6098 or they can be picked up at the Post home during Bingo on Tuesday and Saturday nights or Sunday Afternoon. They must be filled out and have all attachments required, and returned before April 15th, 2005.

The Richard Thames Memorial Scholarship to the University of Southern Mississippi will be awarded again this year. The applications are also available from the same location or by calling John at 467-6098.

This year the scholarship recipients of the American Legion Post 139 scholarships can be used at any accredited college or university. The selection will be made by a team of judges using a point system. The new rules that govern these scholarships are attached to the application. You do not have to be the descendant of a veteran to receive the scholarship, however, descendants of veterans and of Legion members will get 5 additional points for each. The recipient of the Dick Thames Memorial Scholarship to USM will be selected by USM. Therefore the applications must be turned in to John by April 15th (That's tax day easy to remember). He in turn has to meet a deadline set by the schools. Please call for your applications as soon as possible.

Bluegrass master Skaggs plays Casino Magic BSL

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Bluegrass musician, Ricky Skaggs and his band Kentucky Thunder are set to perform two shows at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis on January 14th and 15th at 9 p.m. A professional musician for 30 years, this eight-time Grammy Award winner continues to do his part to lead the recent roots revival in music with five consecutive Grammy nominated albums.

Tickets for these performances are on sale now for $14.95, $19.95 or $24.95 at the Casino Magic Box Office, by calling 1-800-5-MAGIC-5 or through any Ticketmaster outlet.

Skaggs, now 50, was born in eastern Kentucky and was already an accomplished singer and mandolin player by the time he reached his teens. In the late '70s, Skaggs turned his attention to country music. Though still in his twenties, the wealth of experience and talent he possessed served him well, first as a member of Emmylou Harris' Hot Band and later as an individual recording artist. With the release of Waiting For the Sun To

Shine in 1981, Skaggs reached the top of the country charts, and remained there throughout most of the 1980s. As his popularity soared, he garnered eight awards from the Country Music Association (including "Entertainer of the Year" in 1985), four Grammy Awards and dozens of other honors. In 1997, Skaggs established his own record label, which became home to his band, Kentucky Thunder. When Skaggs & Kentucky Thunder perform, their concerts have a non-stop, no-holds-barred energy that reflects both sincere enthusiasm and consummate professionalism. It is an awesome experience, one that brings both old and new audiences to their feet.

Ricky Skaggs has often said that he is "just trying to make a living" playing the music he loves.

But it's clear that his passion for bluegrass puts him in the position to bring this lively, distinctively American form of music out of isolation and into the ears and hearts to audiences across the country and around the world.

Don't miss Ricky Skaggs, January 14th & 15th at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis! Must be at least 21 to attend.

Help make a child's Christmas brighter

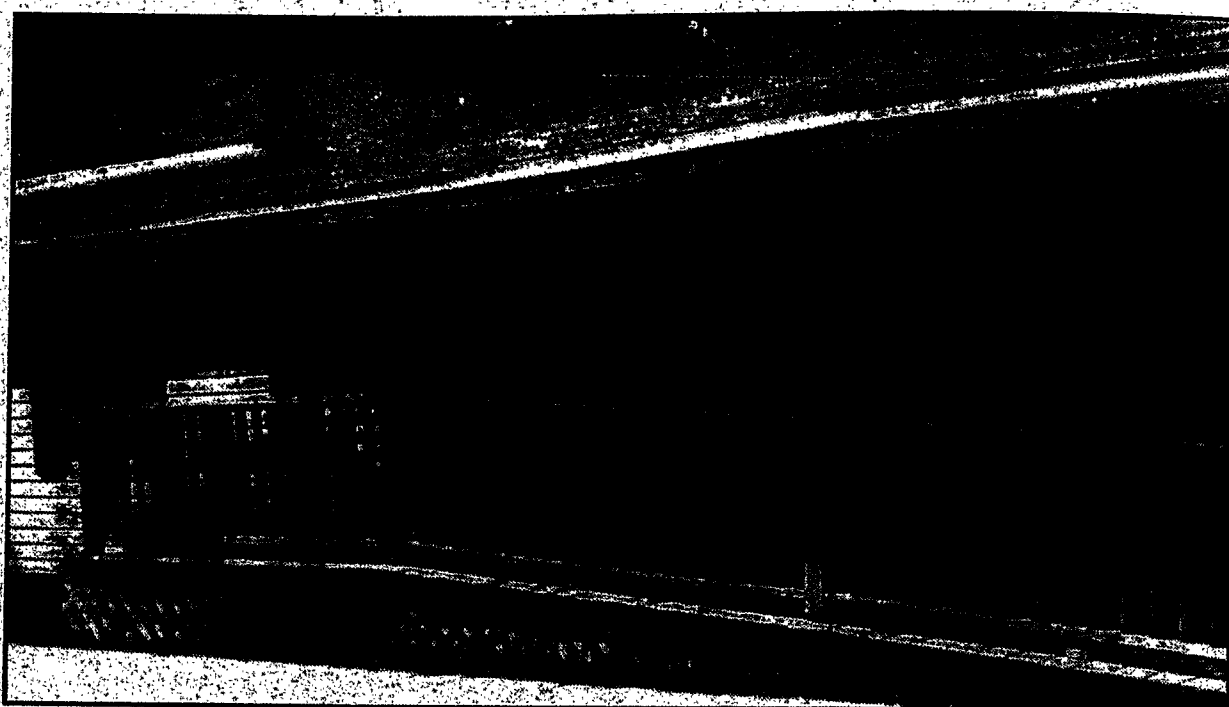

BY TERRY LATHAM
Hope Haven
Children's Shelter

Abused and neglected children need a safe place to stay. Hope Haven will provide such a place for up to 12 children over the holidays. "Many other children shelters close down for Christmas," comments Valerie Edenfield, Assistant Shelter Manager. "The shelters may close as it is hard to get people to work over the holidays and sometimes it is felt that the children are better off in a private home for the Christmas period."

But we feel that we do a great job with the children at Hope Haven at Christmas. The children who stay with us get to help decorate the house, put the tree up, make ornaments for the tree at the library, and do all of those other many things that makes Christmas so special for a child. The children will know where they will be and who they will be with...it may not be mom or dad but it will be a friendly face and they know that "Santa" will come.

"All children at Hope Haven make out a wish list and they get lots of new presents and toys. Beau Rivage and other organizations and individuals contribute gifts to us at this time of

Easy Tips to Achieve Simple, Stress-Free Holiday Cheer

Holidays are a time for fun, family and friends, but they can also result in stress, overeating and taking on more than we can handle. With a little thought and planning, it's possible to take much of the worry out of the holiday season.

"Family celebrations have changed," explains Dottie Enrico, site director of Better Homes and Gardens online, at www.BHG.com/celebrate. "Most women are looking for simple holiday solutions that are healthy, casual, and easy to plan. They want to savor the time they have to spend with family and friends. They don't want to spend it fretting and fussing."

Enrico offers these suggestions for keeping your holiday events simple and healthy:

CREATE SIMPLE GATHERINGS

* When planning holiday dinners and parties, delegate tasks to friends and family. Ask guests to bring side dishes so you can concentrate on the main entree. Since the holidays put us in a giving mood, ask for help in the kitchen. Chances are dinner guests will be more than willing to mash potatoes or refill drinks.

* Keep your event casual so the focus stays on the people, not the place settings. We are often tempted, and even expected, to take our good china and silverware out of storage for holiday dinners, but this only adds the extra step of delicately washing them by hand. Make it easy on yourself and use dishwasher-safe plates and flatware. Your guests will be too busy savoring the good food and conversation to notice, and you'll have more time to enjoy their company!

* Finally, don't go overboard when planning your holiday menu. Although you might be tempted to make each guest's favorite dish, keep it simple and stick to the standard favorites. You can never go wrong with traditional holiday fare.

STRESS-LESS HOLIDAYS

* Set your priorities and stick to them. Don't try to be everything to everyone during the holidays. You can keep much of the inevitable stress at bay by scaling back on your promises. Don't forget to take time for yourself.

* Don't strive for perfection. You will lose sight of what the holidays are truly about, and will create unnecessary anxiety for both you and your family. Try to remember that the little mishaps that happen along the way will make great stories and fun memories for years to come.

* Although it might seem impossible, avoid creating a "To Do" list.

It could prevent you from enjoying all that each holiday has to offer. Instead, enlist the help of your entire family. Bond over decorating, baking, and other tasks and you'll be surprised how quickly you will be ready for the big day!

* And finally, the best stress buster is exercise. A simple walking program will give you some much needed time away from the hustle and bustle, plus you will feel better about indulging when the big day arrives!

Creative Ways to Help Kids Celebrate the Season

Running out of ideas to keep your kids actively involved in holiday celebrations? Here are a few ways from Suite101.com to inspire their creativity and celebrate the season together.

1. Create a time capsule. Have each child write a short paragraph on what he will be doing in the next year, what his favorite toys and activities were this year, and what he thinks was the most important event of the year. You can write a letter to your children about the past or upcoming year. Roll these up and slip them inside a decorated paper towel roll. Place this "time capsule" in the box with the holiday decorations so that it will be there to open next year.

2. Write an ongoing holiday letter to your child. Write a letter in a journal to your child every year. In it, describe the past year and your hopes and dreams for the new year. Send it to your child during his first year of college.

3. Create a New Year's tree. When you dismantle the Christmas tree, take off the ornaments and decorations but leave the tree standing with lights only. Have your kids re-decorate it with the favors, noisemakers, hats and confetti that will be used for your New Year's celebration. Each year thereafter, come up with a theme for your "New Year's" tree. Your children can search for or create their own decorations that complement the theme. For instance, a theme can be "patriotism." The lights on the tree can be red, white and blue, and the ornaments can be flag or eagle inspired. Each child can hang up decorations that represent what he feels is patriotic.

4. Ring in the New Year with innovation. To create your own version of fireworks, buy a huge, boxed roll of bubble wrap. Spread it out on the lawn, the driveway or the kitchen floor. At midnight, let your children pop the bubbles by running up and down the bubble wrap. Add noisemakers, wands and blowing bubbles, confetti (preferably outdoors) and balloons, and you'll ring in the new year in style.

Doll and Toy fund may be able to help

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Publisher Emeritus
The Hancock County Doll and Fund, may still be able to help deserving children have a good Christmas, Bay St. Louis Fire Chief Bobby Gavagnie said last week.

Even with the registration for toys ending at the end of November, the Bay Fire Department will still take names until December 14.

"On December 14, we will then determine what toys we still have and divide them up the best we can for as many deserving youngsters we can," Gavagnie reported.

The Bay-St. Louis Fire Department has been the sponsor for the Hancock County Doll and Toy Fund for many years.

Support is received from the City of Bay St. Louis, business, industry and individual contributions.

The Doll and Toy Fund can be contacted at 467-4736 for further information.

"Donations will still be appreciated," Gavagnie said as, "Several merchants gives the Doll and Toy Fund special prices."

Holiday Safety Tips: Don't Turn 'Ho, Ho' Into 'Oh, No' This Season

The holiday season can be one of the happiest times of the year, especially for the potential thieves and con artists who prey on distracted and unsuspecting shoppers. With stores packed to the gills and purchases made over the Internet burning up cable modem lines across the country, it is the perfect opportunity for no-gooders to steal some of the holiday cheer from the festivities. However, there are ways to keep yourself safer.

SAFETY AT THE MALL

* You're distracted, the stores are crowded, but it's important to force yourself to be aware of your surroundings.

* If possible, keep your personal belongings, (e.g. your wallet or money) in an inside pocket so that pickpockets won't have easy access. You may want to leave that bulky purse at home, too.

* Don't keep a wad of cash

A little planning and common sense - In conjunction with these tips - will help keep this Christmas merry and bright and safe.

in one spot. Distribute your money among several pockets so if you get robbed, you'll still have some cash on hand.

* Where possible, use your debit or credit card in place of cash. If these cards become misplaced or stolen, you can easily report it to your credit card company. It's a lot easier to replace a card than your entire holiday savings.

* Stay alert around ATM machines. Thieves know people take out larger-than-normal amounts of money during the holiday season and are ready to pounce.

* Head out to stores early. This way, you'll get your shopping done during daylight hours.

* Avoid dark, empty parking lots. If you feel unsafe, have a store security guard walk you to your car, no matter how foolish you think you may look. Your safety is more important.

* Put gifts in the trunk or underneath seats. Thieves can easily break a window to snatch your holiday treasure trove if it's teasing them from the back seat.

ONLINE SAFETY

* Only purchase gifts from reputable sites. Large department store Web sites and recognizable businesses are usually safe. You don't want to be left without gifts because a bogus business stole your cash.

* Look for a secure connection when entering payment information. On most computers a padlock icon or the word "secure" will appear at the bottom of your screen when you reach a page that is secure. This makes it harder for hackers to steal your contact information and credit card number when you're ordering.

* Consider using a separate credit card for all online purchases. This makes it easy to track your purchases and see if anyone has used your number illegally.

SAFETY AT HOME

* Beware of phony delivery personnel. Unfortunately, there are people out there who pose as delivery people and service technicians. Look for a truck bearing a company insignia. The service person should have proper identification and documentation of your order.

* Holiday lights adorning the house add to the cheer of the festivities. However, when a normally lit house is dark because you are not home, it can make your home a target for burglars. Set holiday lights and inside lights on a timer so that your home appears occupied, even if it's not. Rely on lights that don't produce much heat, so you'll have peace of mind concerning fires while you're out.

* Keep your doors and windows locked - even when you're home. Burglars know you potentially have gifts inside. Don't make it easier for them to steal your stuff.

* If you'll be traveling during the holidays, have a reliable neighbor take in your mail or turn on your holiday lights in your absence. This way, you won't come home to a house ransacked by burglars after you've just enjoyed your holiday vacation.

By adhering these tips and using some common sense during the holidays, it is possible to keep holiday thieves at bay.

Track Your Child's Development Through Great Holiday Pictures

You've heard the famous quote, "A picture is worth a thousand words." But a picture of your child can also call to mind a thousand memories of her growth and development, says Jane Kostelc, child development specialist at Parents as Teachers National Center, an early childhood parent education organization based in St. Louis.

You probably have favorites among the daily experiences and special events of your young child's life. Remember how cute your newborn looked in the outfit Grandma sent? Or how proud your preschooler was of his "big boy" basketball shoes? Perhaps you want to preserve how sweet your toddler looks, curled up with his special stuffed toy. Captured in a picture, it will become a cherished memory of tender times.

"Pictures are often taken at special occasions, but you can also create traditions by taking photos at the same place and time year after year," says Kostelc. Take a snapshot under the maple tree each year when it turns golden. Collect all the maple-leaf photos on one page of a photo album and see your child grow. Photos of holiday parties and Halloween trick-or-treating tend to be about the event. Taking photos at other times documents your child's favorite clothes, toys and activities, and shows his growth and development.

Save other mementos, such as your child's artwork, and attach a photo to indicate what he looked like when he created the masterpiece. Glue pictures to a calendar page that records activities for that month. As your child grows, he will love looking at the mementos and pictures "from when I was lit-

Scrapbooking is an easy way to preserve your holiday memories.

MEMORIES FOR A LIFETIME

"Childhood passes so quickly, especially the early childhood years," says Kostelc. "Your child has a personal history that is important for him to understand. Taking photos and saving mementos can make memories last a lifetime."

With babies: Mount an 8-by-10- or a 5-by-7 photo of your baby on a stiff backing. Attach a piece of cloth at the top so the cloth covers the picture. Show your baby how to lift the cloth to see her picture. Help her learn her name by exclaiming, "There's (her name)!" when she uncovers her face.

With toddlers: Buy an inexpensive photo album and place snapshots of family, pets and friends in it. Look at the pictures together and name the people. Be sure to include pictures of your child so she learns that she is a part of a family.

With preschoolers: Trace your child's hand on cardboard or craft foam. Let her cut it out if she can use scissors. Trim a picture of your child to fit in the palm of the shape and help her glue it on. Place a magnet strip on the back. These "handy" frames provide memories of how your child looked when her hand was so small. Help your child make these magnets and give them as gifts to promote her social-emotional development.

SIDEBAR: TIPS FROM THE PROS

Follow some photo-friendly advice from the child development specialists at Parents as Teachers.

* Take photos frequently in the first year when the baby is changing quickly.

* Give the baby time to focus on the camera before shooting.

* When someone else is taking the picture, stay close to your baby for extra safety and security.

* Allow your toddler time to get used to the photo studio.

* Keep clothing simple; lots of ruffles or oversized outfits can overwhelm the picture.

* Bring along favorite toys; children are more relaxed with their own possessions.

* Hold pretend photo sessions with an active toddler so she will know what to expect.

* Give preschoolers some choices about clothing and poses.

Give 'Green' This Year

The holiday shopping season has arrived! Have you made your list and checked it twice?

No doubt that many of the gifts on your loved ones holiday wish lists are the latest and greatest in wireless gadgets and cordless electronics products, including cell phones, laptops, digital cameras, MP3 players, cordless power tools, remote controlled toys ... the list goes on and on!

One thing these products have in common is that often rechargeable batteries are required.

Do you know that many rechargeable batteries can and should be recycled when they can no longer hold a charge, not just tossed away?

Just remember: if your rechargeable battery will no longer hold a charge or if you need a new cell phone, don't throw it away — recycle it! The Rechargeable Battery Recycling Corporation (RBRC), a nonprofit public service organization dedicated to cell phone and rechargeable battery recycling, can help. RBRC's program, Call2Recycle™, provides collection boxes for old cell phones, and used rechargeable batteries at dozens of national retailers. Log on to www.call2recycle.org or call (877) 2-RECYCLE to find the nearest drop off location.

For all of those "batteries required" items, follow these simple tips from the Rechargeable Battery Recycling Corporation so you can get the most out of your gifts:

- * Follow the charging guidelines provided by the manufacturer.

- * There are specific initial battery charging times for each product before using it for the first time.

- * Never return a fully-charged battery to the charger for an extra boost. This will shorten the life of the battery.

- * Let a discharged battery cool to room temperature before recharging.

- * Unplug your cell phone from the portable charger before you start you car to prevent damage to the phone and battery.

- * Recharge batteries only when they are near to fully discharged.

- * Call (877) 2-RECYCLE or go to www.call2recycle.org to find a nearby location to drop off used rechargeable batteries and old cell phones.

Make a green gift last all year by reminding your loved ones to always recycle their rechargeable batteries.

Please answer the call to recycle!

Updated Looks Are Hot This Year For Classic Cooks' Gifts

Most people's holiday gift list includes at least one cooking aficionado. Whether the recipient is a casual cook or the next Jacques Pepin, you can almost always find unique or unusual cooking gifts. But that may not be the best plan — after all, we all have fad household items that are gathering dust since their novelty has worn off. What's better is to find functional, versatile and useful cooking gifts that are still fun and delightful. If that challenge sounds intimidating, don't worry; there are several new products that housewares companies have recently introduced that fit the bill. Take Anolon, a leading cookware manufacturer. The company now offers a new line of cutlery called Anolon Advanced with silicone handles for a comfortable and secure grip. The knives are constructed of German steel with an ice-hardened edge and have a one-piece design for durability. Sold in sets or individually, there's sure to be a piece for every style and budget.

One piece to start with might be the $20 santoku chef knife. At five inches, it's smaller than a standard chef's knife and has an angled tip, making it easier to use, even by novices. It also features a hollow-ground finish to prevent foods from sticking to the blade.

A colander might not be the first thing that comes to mind when considering cookware gifts. But think again. The Circulon nonstick colander, retailing for $30, features a nonstick coating so foods, especially starchy ones like pasta and potatoes, don't stick when draining. Add pasta, gourmet olive oil and pesto, and wrap it up as a gift basket.

Another example of a fun and functional gift is Circulon Premier's double duty casserole. The pot has a 5-quart casserole base and a lid that doubles as a 2-quart casserole. Both pieces are constructed of hard-anodized aluminum for quick and even heating, and feature Circulon's groove design that protects the nonstick surface from the wear and tear of cooking utensils.

The double duty casserole, which retails for $50, is ideal for multiple dish dinners or for items that require both oven and stove cooking. And because it's two pots in one, it's also a thoughtful gift for the city dwellers or college students on your list who have limited space.

Farberware mini bakeware brings both whimsy and usefulness to the bakers on your list. The bakeware, both nonstick and dishwasher safe, comes in familiar shapes — angel food pans, muffin tins, loaf pans and spring-form pans — but the diminutive sizes allow users to create fun versions of their favorite dishes, from mini carrot cakes to tea-party size cupcakes. These pans are ideal for serious bakers who are looking to add a different twist to their repertoire of casual holiday baking. The pans are sold in sets of two or four, depending on the shape, for $10 so that one or several pieces can be given as a gift.

Fun and functional cooking accessories make perfect gifts for the cooks on your holiday list. Clockwise, santoku chef knife, Circulon premier's double duty casserole, Farberware mini bakeware and Circulon nonstick colander.

5 Gift Ideas for Today's Globetrotter

One of the best ways to trigger ideas about what to get those on your shopping list is to look at their hobbies. If your nephew is a fisherman, you can get him a rod and tackle box. If your brother is into football, you can buy him tickets to a hot college or professional game. If your daughter is into science, buy her a telescope.

Now, say that there's a traveler on your list. Maybe your boss has a New Year's Eve cruise on his agenda. Or maybe your niece is spending her next college semester studying abroad. What globetrotter wouldn't want a gift that is "one less thing" to buy before he jets off. Here are some travel-oriented ideas perfect for gift-giving.

1. Guidebooks — Everyone wants to see the city like a native. Knowing where to find museums, the best cafes for a cup of coffee and the recommended places to dine can make any travel experience that much better.

2. Luggage — You can't go wrong with luggage, on wheels, backpacks and other travel gear. Purchase a matching set or get one piece that they can add to their current collection.

Guidebooks and a translator like the one above are useful gifts that every traveler on your holiday gift list will appreciate.

3. Money converter — How many Euros equal a dollar? In which countries will your money go the furthest? Make someone's life easier with a currency calculator that does the math.

4. Maps — No one wants to get lost in a country where he doesn't know the language. City maps, street maps and specialty maps (shopping, museums, etc.) can be found in most bookstores.

5. Translator — "I need to find a restroom now" or "I want to order a glass of water but have no idea how." Save the day with a translator like the new LINGO Touch-Screen Talking translator (available online at www.lingotravel.com and at Brookstone, the Neiman-Marcus catalog or from the LifeStyle catalog).

This pocket-sized touch-screen talking electronic translator speaks nine languages (French, German, Spanish, Italian, Mandarin Chinese, Japanese, Korean, Russian, and English), and features nearly 200,000 words and more than 20,000 phrases in each of the nine languages. Words and phrases are categorized for easy reference.

A complete traveler's tool, LINGO Touch-Screen also includes a built-in calculator, world clock, currency converter, an address/phone number databank, and earbud headphones for privacy.

To operate, a traveler uses a built-in stylus to tap in the word or phrase that needs to be translated. He then selects the language and a built-in voice chip clearly articulates the word or phrase in the chosen language. Character displays are easy to read and the device is powered by batteries and backed by a one-year warranty.

So for the traveler on your gift list, give something that will be put to good use on each and every trip.

DID YOU KNOW? Kwanzaa is Swahili for "first fruits" or "first fruits of the harvest." It celebrates African-American heritage, community, family and culture, which is based on the rituals of African harvest festivals. The holiday is unique because it bears no religious, political or heroic associations. It's not intended to be a substitute for Christmas, but rather a time to focus on African-American culture and traditions.

A sleigh full of ideas just in time for the holidays...

Wrap All Your Gifts Like a Professional

You've combed the stores for the perfect gifts for everyone on your list. Now you're face to face with bags and boxes that all need to be wrapped before the big day. It may seem like an insurmountable task, especially for last-minute shoppers. However, with a little know-how and the right materials, wrapping can be creative fun.

TRADITIONAL WRAPPING

As you may have guessed, square or rectangular boxes are easier to wrap than other shapes. Therefore, where possible, place irregularly shaped packages in a rectangular box to make your wrapping go that much faster. Here are some surefire wrapping steps from eHow.com:

1. Gather all your materials and place them on a flat surface. Don't forget to remove the price tag.

2. Place the box along the length of wrapping paper and unroll enough paper to wrap it around the box, leaving at least a 2-inch overlap. There should be enough wrapping paper at each end of the box to cover the ends completely when they are folded over.

3. Mark where this overlap ends. Cut the wrapping paper in a straight line at this point.

4. Eyeball the wrapping paper at the ends of the box.

Trim any extra paper so that the remaining flaps are long enough to cover the box, but short enough to fold over smoothly into flaps.

5. Open the paper you've just cut and lay the box in the center of the unprinted side, top down.

6. Bring one lengthwise edge of the wrapping paper to the center of the box and secure it with tape. Turn the opposite end over approximately one inch and fold and tape to the center of the box.

7. Turn the box to face one short side. Grasp the left and right edges of the wrapping paper and push the sides to form top and bottom flaps. Make sure the edges are pushed in as far as they will go without ripping the paper. Tape the edges to the box.

8. Bring the upper flap down against the side of the box, making sure the flap is sharply creased at its folds. Tape in place.

Do the same for the lower flap.

9. Repeat for the opposite side of the box.

10. Turn box over, wrap a ribbon around it and place a bow on top of your now-wrapped gift.

ALTERNATIVE WRAPPING

Most people stock up on wrapping paper, ribbons and bows for holiday wrapping duty. However, there are many other less-traditional items that can make your gifts stand out from the stack. Here are some ideas:

• Wrap awkwardly shaped items in soft, flexible materials, like scarves, decorative towels or lace, rather than struggling with creasing wrapping paper.

• Gift bags are invaluable tools. Simply place your gift inside and top with decorative tissue paper. Tie handles together with ribbon. Or make a homemade gift bag by applying a rubber stamp with a seasonal design to a plain paper bag.

• Use tins, flower pots, glass jars or canisters for unusual gift holders. Recipients can use the container as well as the gift itself.

• Don't overlook newsprint, postal paper, architectural drawings or maps as wrapping paper substitutes.

• Hollow out an old book, glue the pages together, and use for a clever presentation package for a small treasure.

• Use your imagination! You can probably come up with scores of wrapping ideas just by scouring your home.

Rev-Up Your Man's Senses

Do you feel like you get your man the same gift year in and year out? Make it a resolution to shift holiday gift-giving into a new gear by offering him the latest men's fragrance.

Send your senses into overdrive with the new fragrance, Full Throttle, created by father and son Paul Teutul Sr. and Paul Teutul Jr., stars of the television program, American Chopper. It was developed to fulfill Paul Jr.'s rule, "Go full throttle — don't hold back. Put your heart into everything you do, and you can turn anything into a work of art." When worn, Full Throttle evokes the feeling of the open road without even getting on a bike!

The fragrance is available in two gift sets. Start the day off right with "Start It Up," which includes a 3.4-ounce

All Full Throttle products can be purchased at Belk, Dillard's, Filene's, Foley's and Marshall Fields.

Avoid Excess Holiday Credit Card Debt

The holidays, however joyful and anticipated, can put a financial strain on an already overtaxed budget. Gifts, decorations, groceries and other must-haves have a tendency to rack up large sales slips.

Perhaps you're one of the many who feel like this month-long indulgence can be financed with a credit card, which can defer the payments of large-ticket items. What you may not realize is that the repercussions of using plastic irresponsibly can last for months or even years.

A few years ago, the National Retail Federation found that consumers spend an average of $1,000 per household during the holidays on gifts and other seasonal items. When placed on a credit card that earns 20 percent interest on your deferred purchases, it takes an average of four months to pay off that amount (and that's if nothing else is being charged in the interim).

PLANNING CAN CUT DEBT

Before you head out to the store or log onto your favorite online merchant, take some steps to safeguard your finances.

* Set a holiday budget. Look at your savings and other money you have on hand. Devise a realistic budget of just what you can afford this season. Don't factor in holiday bonuses or cash gifts from other family members to help you expense your own purchases. Aunt Joy may give a little less this year and your company may have a party instead. That can leave you spending more than you have. Once you come up with a number — stick to it.

* Make a list of purchases. If you go to the store with a list in hand you may be less likely to buy on impulse. Set a price limit on all gifts so you don't overspend. It's the thought that counts, not how much you've spent.

* Consolidate purchases. Devise ways the family can save money. You can hold a "Secret Santa" where each relative is responsible for one other family member's gift. This way everyone can purchase and receive two nice gifts, instead of several inexpensive ones (whose cost can add up).

* Use credit wisely. See your credit card as a link to cash in the bank, not money to borrow. This will make it easier to reign in purchases. If you can only afford $300 in gifts, don't charge up $500 with lofty plans to pay off the rest over time. When you head home, deduct your purchases from your checking account, so that you already know how much will go toward your next credit card statement.

* Leave the card at home. Credit cards can be positive tools. They help you avoid carrying large sums of cash or your check book to busy stores where pickpockets prey. However, if you can't gain control of credit card spending, opt to pay in cash.

* Watch online purchases. When shopping online, many sites let you deduct purchases directly from your checking account. If you have to use a credit card, you may also want to sign up for a secured card. Secured cards require a cash deposit to set a spending limit based upon what you can afford (many teens or college kids use this as their first credit card). As you make purchases, it depletes the balance. If you "max out" the card, it won't go beyond your spending limit and what you can afford. (Your spending limit may increase as you establish good credit.)

Remember, the holidays and beyond should be times enjoyed with loved ones. Be sensible about credit card purchases this season. Don't put a damper on the festivities by drowning in debt.

Professional Shares Holiday Hair Trends

Now that the holidays are around the corner, you'll have parties to attend and people to visit. You'll definitely want to look and feel your best. One way to do so is to experiment with a new hairstyle or color. This way your new look will be the "mane" attraction at gatherings.

Be "tressed to impress" when you step out for holiday functions. Follow the advice of Damien Carney, international artistic director of Joico, who offers the latest trends, products and tips for the season.

1. What direction do you see the hair trend going for the holiday season? Texture is huge, but it's subtle — texture that looks undone, loose. It shouldn't look like you've tried hard to achieve the look. It's all about looseness — almost like an "I don't care" attitude but, at the same time, there's lots of preparation and work that goes into creating that look.

With the latest haircutting techniques and styling tips from the pros at Joico, you can get that "messy," loose look that's so popular this holiday season, regardless of the length of your hair.

Whether the hair is long, short, pink or black is irrelevant. It's about the mood. Using the right products and styling techniques with the right color will create a "total" look. Layering will give lots of texture regardless of hairstyle, type or length. The fringe is still important. It can be asymmetrical, hacked into, chopped into, broken up, fractured, light, willowy, veiled or delicate.

2. What shades of hair color are right for the holiday season? Holiday colors are ultra-natural and chic. The hair is healthy, rich, vibrant and not overly colored. Expect to see more solid colors but subtle tones within tones.

At the opposite end of the spectrum, there's the youth market which is always experimenting with colors: red, cherry, wine, Bordeaux, raisin-rich, deep colors. There's a fluorescent feel to the color that's more vibrant. In fact, it's more about the vibrancy than the shade. We're seeing more blocks of color that will emphasize the design and silhouette of the hairstyle. In general, you can't have a right or wrong color. Fashion, style, clothes and makeup are all eclectic at the moment. There's not one right or wrong feel for the season. It's about personal identity or how you want to be perceived by others. You want to make your own statement.

3. Are there certain looks that you would suggest for short or long hair? Focus on texture. Rough it up. Fashion is not about dictating hair as long or short. Length is irrelevant, but texture is important. That's what makes the silhouette and the hair look modern and in season. Layering is the key; the messier, the better. If you're going to wear hair curly, liberate it and don't flatten it — expand it. We're seeing more volume, but not in an obvious way.

Styling hair with volumizing products, such as Joico Hi-Rise Hair volume booster, I-C-E HAIR Spiker Blast Hair Spray, Joico I.C.E. Whip firm-hold designing foam, or I-C-E HAIR Reactor will give body and volume and change the fabric and appearance of the hair. If hair is bone straight, you can still throw in some rollers. Velcro or heated rollers will give it body when you want to see a bit of difference between day and night.

4. What styling product do you consider an all-around product? I-C-E HAIR Reactor is great because it works on all hair textures and lengths. If you work it into curly hair, it encourages curls. If you work it into fine hair, it makes you feel like you have more hair. It's great for blow-drying hair with a brush, or you can just let it dry naturally. It's a nice, soft hold.

I also love Volissima Volumizing Lotion and Volissima Volumizing Gel to add instant volume. Because they're heat-activated, they defend heat styling. They make my work easier because they're pliable. You can never have too much volume — you can always reduce it. For smoothing textured hair or any hair that lacks moisture, shine and pliability, try K-Pak Smoothing Balm. It's also great for making hair more reflective. You can straighten it with a brush, or put rollers in the hair. It makes dull, lifeless hair become vibrant, healthy and shiny.

When I want the ultimate soft, silky, shiny hair I use Silk Result. It stays soft until your next shampoo. It's my lifesaver; when all else fails and when hair is dull and flat, everything comes to life with this product.

5. Do you have a suggestion for a holiday party look? Ponytails are hot, but do it loosely in an undone manner. Place the ponytail between the crown and nape area (putting it into this central zone helps create a modern look). You can backcomb the hair at the top or front to create a little lift, then smooth it loosely with fingers, pull back and secure with a ponytail holder. Whatever falls out and around the face is cool. If the ponytail is short, don't worry — it looks even cooler!

If you are wearing your hair down, make sure it's big with waves, curls, crimping or texture. Whether hair is short or long, the essence of how you're wearing it is important. Length is not important here, the finish is.

Fun Facts About Holiday Fruitcake

Humor columnist Dave Barry once wrote, "Fruitcakes make ideal gifts because the Postal Service has been unable to find a way to damage them."

Indeed, the fruitcake's durability has been the brunt of many a joke. But actually, it's a cake that's loaded with more than just fruit — it boasts a lot of history, too.

The oldest reference regarding fruitcakes dates back to Roman times. Ancient crusaders and hunters ate fruitcake made with honey, spices, preserved fruits, pomegranate seeds, pine nuts and raisins. Fruitcake would last during their long times away from home and be a good source of energy, too. Today, hikers, hunters and skiers follow the same practice. In the 1700s, Europeans baked a ceremonial fruitcake at the end of the nut harvest. It was saved and eaten at the next year's harvest, hoping it would spur another successful harvest. In the 1800s, fruitcake was served with tea. Rumor has it that Queen Victoria waited a year to eat a fruitcake she received for her birthday as a show of restraint and moderation.

Indeed, fruitcakes make great gifts because they last so long and can be mailed. Most fruitcakes will last 8 to 12 months tightly wrapped in plastic wrap and stored in an airtight container, or they can be frozen. Give a gift from the heart by making those on your gift list a regular or light fruitcake, courtesy of "Making Beautiful Christmas Cakes" (Merehurst). They'll see why fruitcakes have carved themselves a niche in culinary holiday tradition.

FRUITCAKE

- 3 cups sultanas (golden raisins)
- 2 1/2 cups raisins, chopped
- 1 1/2 cups currants
- 2 cups chopped glace cherries
- 1 cup brandy or rum
- 1 cup butter

- 1 cup soft, dark brown sugar
- 2 tablespoons apricot jam (jelly)
- 2 tablespoons treacle or molasses
- 1 tablespoon grated lemon or orange rind
- 4 eggs
- 2 3/4 cups plain (all-purpose) flour
- 1 teaspoon ginger
- 1 teaspoon mixed spice
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon

1. Put the fruit in a bowl with the brandy and soak overnight. Preheat the oven to 300 F. Line a 9-inch round cake pan with melted butter or a mild-flavored vegetable oil. To wrap the pan, cut a double layer of greaseproof parchment paper into a strip long enough to fit around the outside of the pan and tall enough to come about 2 inches above the edge of the pan. Fold down a cuff about 3/4 inch deep along the length of the strip along the folded edges. Make diagonal cuts up to the fold line on each strip, about 1/2 inch apart. Fit the strip around the inside of the pan, with the cuts on the base, pressing the cuts out at right angles so they sit flat around the base. Place the pan on a doubled piece of parchment paper, and trace the edge. Cut the shape and place on the base of the pan, over the cuts.

2. Beat the butter and sugar. Beat in the jam (jelly), treacle and rind. Add the eggs, beating after each addition. Stir in the fruit and the sifted flour and spices.

3. Spoon the mixture into the pan, ensuring it is pushed well into the corners and edges. Smooth the surface with fingers dipped in water. Tap the pan to remove any air bubbles. Adjust oven shelves accordingly. Cakes are usually cooked on the third shelf. Place on layers of newspapers in the oven (the oven temperature is low enough to use paper safely), and bake for 3 to 3 1/2 hours, or until a skewer comes out clean. Brush with brandy. Cover with greaseproof (parchment) paper and wrap in a kitchen towel. Let cool in the pan, and remove when the cake is cold.

LIGHT FRUITCAKE

- 3/4 cup unsalted butter
- 1/2 cup caster (superfine) sugar
- 3 eggs
- 1 cup sultanas (golden raisins)
- 2/3 cup currants
- 1/4 cup chopped glace apricots
- 1/4 cup chopped glace figs
- 2 cups chopped glace cherries
- 1/2 cup coarsely chopped macadamia nuts
- 1 1/2 cups plain (all-purpose) flour
- 1/2 cup self-raising flour
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 tablespoon sweet sherry
- Nuts or glace cherries

1. Preheat the oven to 315.

F. Line a deep 8-inch round cake pan (follow instructions for fruit cake). Cream the softened butter and sugar in a bowl until just combined. Add the eggs, beating well after each addition.

2. Transfer to a large bowl, and stir in the fruit and nuts. Stir in half the flours and milk, and stir. Stir in the remaining flours, milk and the sherry. Spoon into the pan and tap to remove air bubbles.

Smooth the surface with wet fingers and decorate with nuts or cherries. Wrap the outside of the pan (see instructions for fruitcake). Place on layers of newspaper in the oven and bake for 1 3/4 to 2 hours or until a skewer comes out clean.

3. Remove from the oven, and wrap in a kitchen towel until cool. Remove the pan's lining, and wrap the cake in foil or store in an airtight container.

A novice Santa gives 'Snow' a go in ABC Family movie

By Jay Bobbin.
© Zap2it

You're a first-time Santa and just before Christmas, one of your reindeer is MIA. What do you do?
Naturally, you try to recover your sleigh team's missing member. That's the mission of former "Ed" star Tom Cavanagh's character in "Snow," a gently whimsical ABC Family movie debuting Sunday, Dec. 12.

Using a streamlined travel method like Arnold Schwarzenegger's in "The Terminator," the so-called "Nick Snowdent" treks from the North Pole to the California zoo where runaway reindeer Buddy has been brought by a profit-minded hunter (Patrick Fabian).

Zoo employee Sandy (Ashley Williams, "Good Morning, Miami") is curious about the stranger, who rooms at the boarding-house where she resides. Ultimately, she finds a friend in Nick, who restores the Christmas spirit she lost when her parents died. He stays determined to retrieve Buddy, without whom he won't be able to make Christmas Eve rounds. Bobb'e J. Thompson co-stars as a youngster who also lives in the boardinghouse.

"We certainly had a fun time shooting this," Cavanagh says. "A lot of it depends on special effects, but we took care of the human part as best we could. It's lighter than a lot of Christmas movies. Anytime you're chasing after reindeer, you're maybe lowering the bar in terms of the message but raising it in terms of the fun quotient. We weren't making 'Bad Santa,' though. It's supposed to adhere to the true spirit of the season."

Although Williams was an NBC series star at the same time he was, Cavanagh hadn't met her before they made "Snow." He explains, "She shot in L.A. while we were in New Jersey. The NBC people we'd usually run into were the 'Law & Order' gang. Ashley is awesome, just a barrel of fun." She's also the sister of Kimberly Williams-Paisley of the ABC sitcom "According to Jim."

"What I love about this story is that it takes what's essentially a fairy tale and looks at it sort of logically," Williams says. "It's kind of a 'What if?' game... If a new Santa was needed, what would the procedure be? The son would take over the legacy and the responsibilities, so this movie creates a new holiday hero. Tom did a really good job of that. He'd do all these things that weren't in the script. If something bad happened, he'd say, 'Oh, jingle bells! I think he tried to do one of those for every shot.'"

"NFL Football" Monday, Dec. 13 (ABC, 9 p.m. ET): What a difference a year makes. At this time last season, the Tennessee Titans and Kansas City Chiefs, who meet tonight in Nashville, were battling for the AFC's No. 1 playoff seed. But the injury bug has bitten the Titans' best player, quarterback Steve McNair, rendering him a shell of his 2003 co-MVP self. And while Chiefs star running back Priest Holmes has been hurt, too, K.C.'s main problem thus far has been its dreadful defensive showing.

"College Basketball" Saturday, Dec. 18 (ESPN, 12 p.m. ET): The fierce, decades-old hoops rivalry between Louisville and Kentucky has seen its share of classics, perhaps none more exhilarating for Cardinals faithful than last year's encounter. "My best win ever," said Rick Pitino after he coached his Louisville squad back from a 14-point deficit to beat then-No. 1 Kentucky on its home floor. Seeking payback today, forward Chuck Hayes leads the Wildcats into Louisville against guard Taquan Dean and the Cards.

"NFL Football" Saturday, Dec. 18 (CBS, 1:30 p.m. ET): Welcome to the NFL, kid! New York Giants rookie quarterback Eli Manning may be hearing that a lot today after being decked by the blitz-happy Pittsburgh Steelers defenders. And now that his pro career is up and running, he's sure to hear plenty of comparisons to Steelers wunderkind rookie passer Ben Roethlisberger. "Big Ben" has garnered much praise, even if his main job has been getting out of the way after handing the ball to Duce Staley or Jerome Bettis.

Terrell Owens and the Philadelphia Eagles take on the Washington Redskins Sunday on ESPN.

Celebrity Scoop

Renee Olstead

By John Crook
© Zap2it

It's easy to see why some people are using the word "prodigy" when they talk about Renee Olstead.

At 15, the Houston native has a prominent role in the CBS Monday sitcom "Still Standing," in which she plays average teen Lauren Miller. Off camera, Olstead appears to be standing on the brink of a major recording career, thanks to her bluesy self-titled CD on the 123 Records/Reprise label, where she covers standards such as "Someone to Watch Over Me" and "Summertime" with an assurance that belies her years.

"But I'm really a very normal person," Olstead insists. "I'm actually a lot like Lauren. We both enjoy being with friends, and we enjoy the arts, something they're starting to incorporate into the scripts now. I think we both know how to have fun, but we're good people."

Between acting and singing, Olstead, who has been shuttling between Los Angeles and her Texas home since she was 8, has such a full dance card that she began home schooling a couple of years ago just to accommodate her schedule.

"I'm a junior," she says. "I'm excited about graduating, and my top college choice is UT-Austin. There's a great energy and fun people there."

Her CD, overseen by megaproducer David Foster, sits atop several blues charts, but for now Olstead says she also loves playing Lauren, who has a new boyfriend and a front-burner story line on "Still Standing" this season.

"We're lucky enough to have some very good writers who make us laugh a lot," she says of her TV gig. "I may reach a point where I have to make a choice, but right now I love doing both at the same time."

Born: June 18, 1989, in Houston
Family ties: Father is a business consultant; mother is a homemaker.
Dream project: If someone handed me a blank check that was strictly for entertainment purposes, I would probably love to write and produce my own movie, possibly even star in it, but definitely also have the title credits song. "Can I get all that in there?"

TV guest credits: "Touched by an Angel," "Providence," "My Guide to Becoming a Rock Star," "She Spies."
Film credits: Include "13 Going on 30," "The Insider," "End of Days" and "Space Cowboys."

Musical inspirations: Billie Holiday, Etta James, Dinah Washington.

Lessons to be learned in Sci-Fi Channel's 'Legend of Earthsea'

By Kate O'Hare
© Zap2it

Although they may be set in far-fung worlds, fantasy tales can never truly be separated from their creators and from the lands that created them.

Some of the most popular fantasy — from "The Lord of the Rings" and "The Chronicles of Narnia" to "Harry Potter" — comes from a British (and by extension, a northern European) tradition. But what if the fantasy originates in North America, a land once thought mystical and mysterious by European explorers? Further, what if it comes from a woman who spent much of her life in Portland, Ore., in the Pacific Northwest, a well-watered land of forests, rivers and seashore?

It would look a lot like Ursula LeGuin's Earthsea. Published between 1968 and 1972, the Earthsea trilogy — "A Wizard of Earthsea," "The Tombs of Atuan" and "The Farthest Shore" (along with a fourth book, Tehanu: The Last Book of Earthsea) — was originally intended for young adults but has become a worldwide favorite with all ages.

On Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 13 and 14, Sci-Fi Channel adapts the first two books into a four-hour miniseries called "Legend of Earthsea," set in a mythical, windswept land of island kingdoms. Robert Halmi Sr. of Hallmark Entertainment, along with Kevin Brown and Lawrence Bender of Bender-Brown Productions, are executive producers. Robert Lieberman ("Casino") directs from a screenplay by Gavin Scott ("The Mists of Avalon").

Filmed on location in Vancouver, Canada, "Earthsea" stars Shawn Ashmore (the "X-Men" movies) as Ged, an impetuous youth who discovers he has magical powers. With the help of legendary wizard Ogion (Danny Glover, "Lethal Weapon"), he seeks to master his craft, but instead unleashes an evil force. This forces him on a journey that leads him to Tenar (Kristin Kreuk, "Smallville"), the successor to High Priestess Thar (Isabella Rossellini, "Merlin"). Ultimately, Ged and Tenar must combine their powers to save Earthsea.

"It's usually a European and middle-European world (in fantasy)," Halmi says. "Because 'Earthsea' comes from America, it comes with all those American traditions. That's why it's multicultural, multiracial. You never see wizard movies done in England that has any kind of color in it, because that's a different world. We have no mythology, so we create our own."

Kreuk first became aware of "Earthsea" through her younger sister, a fan, and she knew Halmi's Hallmark Entertainment because she did a multicultural version of "Snow White" for the company.

"They took a chance on me with 'Snow White,'" Kreuk says. "And I was shooting at home in Vancouver" — where "Smallville" also films — "which was another bonus for me. It would not have happened if it had not been shooting in Vancouver."

"And it's perfect. The way you envision Earthsea is just this chain of islands, which is outer Vancouver, the Gulf Islands. I think they took a layout of the Gulf Islands and used that as the landscape of Earthsea. It's beautiful."

"She also appreciates the differences between 'Earthsea' and European fantasy novels. 'The women are strong and play a very important role in bringing peace to Earthsea,' Kreuk says. 'Isabella's character is wonderfully strong, as is mine; rebellious in some ways and feisty. The men and women work together to come to this end.'"

"There are still guys on a quest, but there are women at the other end of the quest that hold all the power. It's between man and woman, between faith and magic, fatalism... making them

Shawn Ashmore stars as Ged, an impulsive blacksmith's son who discovers he has the power to become a wizard. In the Sci-Fi Channel miniseries "Legend of Earthsea," airing Monday and Tuesday, come together so that everything is right."

As Tenar learns from Thar, Kreuk took the opportunity to learn from Rossellini, daughter of film legend Ingrid Bergman. "Isabella seems in some ways like a child," Kreuk says. "She's so graceful and down to earth and funny and smart and worldly. She's passionate about what she does. I've also just watched her enjoy everything, keep her sense of humor when things get rough."

"And she's a woman who is who she is. She's Isabella Rossellini, and she's always been Isabella Rossellini. She's so grounded and real. As a young actor, who's really just starting out, you can see where you should be and who you should be like. She's someone to emulate, because there are so many people who just start to believe that they are the best and end-all of the world — and nobody is."

'Stargate' will open for ninth season

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Q "Stargate SG-1" ... an eighth season or not? In the last six episodes, the actors seemed unhappy, and Richard Dean Anderson was almost calling his performance in "Nancy Maslan, Highland, Ind."

A "Well, that just may be a booster shot for what actually will be the show's ninth season. Sci-Fi Channel recently confirmed there will be another new set of episodes, tying "Stargate SG-1" with "The X-Files" as the longest-running science-fiction drama series in U.S. television history. The spinoff series "Stargate Atlantis" also earned renewal for a second season. Production on both shows is expected to resume in March, 2005, with the results slated to air in the summer."

Q Who plays principal Gibbs on "24 Simple Rules"?
A Caleb Easton, Pa. That's Adam Arkin, who starred as one of the doctors on CBS' "Chicago Hope" and also has appeared from time to time on

Richard Dean Anderson

NBC's "The West Wing" as a psychiatrist. He's a second-generation actor; his father is Alan Arkin ("Catch-22," "100 Centre Street").

Q Is Marielke Hargitay of "Law & Order: Special Victims Unit" related to Mickey Hargitay, who was married to Jayne Mansfield?
A Pat O'Keefe, Evanston, Ill.

A She's their daughter. It might interest you to know she's also a newlywed. In August, she married actor Peter Hermann, who has made a slew of guest appearances on her NBC show as an attorney named Trevor Langan.

Q My husband and I still watch "Satanstoe," and we wonder what ever happened to Pernell Roberts, who played Cartwright son Adam. Betty Jane S. Greenfield, Wis.

A After leaving the classic Western long before its run ended, Roberts reportedly over creative differences, Roberts scored another series success with the "M*A*S*H" spinoff "Trapper John, M.D." He basically retired from the acting profession in the early 1990s after he hosted the ABC show "FBI: The Untold Stories," although he did make a couple of "Diagnosis Murder" guest appearances after that.

Thom Bierdz paints to heal

Thom Bierdz

By Paulette Cohn
© Zap2it

Actor-turned-artist Thom Bierdz's (ex-Phillip Chancellor III, "The Young and the Restless") life has been full of tragedy.

In 1989, his paranoid schizophrenic brother, Troy, murdered their mother. Bierdz was on the road to recovery from that heartbreak when, in 2000, his brother Craig committed suicide, leaving behind a wife and children.

Bierdz, who returned as a ghost on the soap last July, turned to painting as therapy to help him heal. Today, he successfully supports himself as an artist. So much so that last month, Scarlett Johansson hosted a reception at the Solcher-Marin Gallery in Hawthorne, Calif., to launch an exhibit of his paintings.

"Each painting became an earnest attempt to make sense out of the senseless, to make something beautiful out of something tragic," says Bierdz, whose work can be viewed online at <http://www.thombierdz.com>. The canvases begin selling at $2,000.

The holidays are just around the corner, so if you have a soap fan on your shopping list, check out Soapnet's new online boutique at <http://www.shopssoapnet.com>. The store offers Soapnet-themed merchandise, as well as items from "All

My Children," "General Hospital" and "One Life to Live."

In casting news, Lyndsy Fonseca returns to "Y&R" to resume the role of Colleen Carlton. She will again work with Thad Luckinbill, who plays J.T. Hellstrom. Her first day is Dec. 24. Over at "The Bold and the Beautiful," a new Bridget Forrester will be joining the cast on Dec. 17, when Ashley Jones takes over the role.

Dear Paulette: I may be crazy but it seems to me that a long, long time ago, before Victor entered Nikki's life (in "Y&R"), that she and Paul Williams were together (I think ever married). Maybe I dreamed it, but this has been nagging at me for some time now. Am I even close? Thank you. -Martha D., Largo, Fla.

Dear Reader: Nikki and Paul were involved back in the days when Paul was a wild child, but they never married. "Y&R" writers use their relationship to tackle the issue of sexually transmitted diseases.

7 p.m. on 4-CBS

Survivor: Vanuatu, Islands of Fire

Another season of the competitive reality show that started it all concludes with a two-hour finale, "Spirits and the Final Four," in which the winner is crowned. Afterward, all the contestants reassemble to reminisce about the challenges, the alliances, the gender wars and the final outcome. Jeff Probst hosts.

7 p.m. on 6-NBC

Movie:

National Lampoon's Christmas Vacation

Written by "Home Alone" filmmaker John Hughes, the third installment in the movie-comedy series was a major hit of the 1989 holiday season. Chevy Chase returns as Griswold family patriarch Clark, who tries to ensure a traditional yuletide for his clan — despite the considerable odds against it. Co-stars Beverly D'Angelo and Randy Quaid also are back; Juliette Lewis plays one of the younger Griswolds.

7:30 p.m. on ESPN

NFL Football

Mismatch. That succinctly sums up the first meeting this year between the Washington Redskins and Philadelphia Eagles. Donovan McN abb tossed four touchdown passes, including one to security blanket Terrell Owens, to lead the Eagles to a 28-6 rout. While Philly had little trouble against the NFL's second-ranked defense, the Skins' offense remained offensive. Through 11 games, they hadn't scored more than 18 points in any one of them.

Chevy Chase

8 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Desperate Housewives

In the new episode "Suspicious Minds," a bored Gabrielle (Eva Longoria) plans a fashion show featuring the women of Wisteria Lane, one of whom — Susan (Teri Hatcher) — is reeling after learning Gabrielle's secret. Lynette (Felicity Huffman) uses her business savvy to solve a problem at home. Bree (Marcia Cross) takes action with Andrew (Shawn Pyfrom). Nicollette Sheridan also stars.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Crossing Jordan

A woman (guest star Susan Haskell) who shot and killed an attacker has a restraining order against another man (guest star Marcus Chait) in "He Said, She Said." Accusations and rebuttals fly as Woody and Devan (Jerry O'Connell, Jennifer Finnigan) investigate. Bug (Ravi Kapoor) is suspicious of a woman's (guest star Pamela Sinha) request for special treatment of her late husband's corpse.

9 p.m. on USA

Moving Image Salutes John Travolta

In this new special, the artist formerly known as Vinnie Barbarino is recognized for how far he's come from that 1970s role. Oprah Winfrey presents Travolta with the award from the Museum of the Moving Image, a repository of film, television and digital media. The special includes lots of clips from the star's career and words from fellow stars Kathy Bates, James Gandolfini and Kelly Preston — aka Mrs. Travolta.

9:01 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Boston Legal

Sticky ethical issues abound in the new episode "A Greater Good." While defending a pharmaceutical company, Crane and Shore (William Shatner, James Spader) get some new information that has them disagreeing over how to proceed. Lori (Monica Potter) is conflicted about how to respond to a questionable action on Tara's (Rhona Mitra) part. Mark Valley also stars.

Movie: Terms of Endearment
 Rookie director James L. Brooks scored the big three Academy Awards — best picture, best director and best screenplay — with this 1983 tear-jerker. Shirley MacLaine won the best actress Oscar for her portrayal of Aurora, an uptight widow dealing with a rebellious adult daughter and her own need for love. Jack Nicholson also won an Oscar for his portrayal of a boorish ex-astronaut who romances Aurora. Debra Winger, Jeff Daniels, John Lithgow and Danny DeVito also star.

Listen Up
 Tony (Jason Alexander) should have been careful what he wished for — because he gets it — in the new episode "Enemy at the Gates." He wants Megan (Daniella Monet) to show some interest in Mickey's (Will Rothhaar) golf game. And she does, especially after she meets the handsome hunk her brother is playing against. Tony forbids her to see him, but that doesn't stop her.

8 p.m. on 4-CBS

Everybody Loves Raymond
 "The Toaster" has become a holiday classic. Ray and Debra (Ray Romano, Patricia Heaton) give personalized toasters for Christmas, and everyone loves them — except Frank and Marie (Peter Boyle, Doris Roberts), who exchange the gift for something "else." When Ray finds out, the repentant elder Barones resort to drastic measures to get the toaster back.

8 p.m. on 38-WB

Everwood
 Since it cuts into his time with Amy (Emily VanCamp), Ephram (Gregory Smith) resents having agreed to keep an eye on Hannah (Sarah Drew) in "Staking Claim." The situation is complicated further by Amy and Hannah's new friendship. Tensions in her workplace prompt Edna (Debra Mooney) to quit and take a job with Dr. Hartman (Scott Wolf). Elizabeth Mitchell ("ER") guest stars.

8:30 p.m. on 4-CBS

Two and a Half Men
 Jodi Lyn O'Keefe ("Nash Bridges") guest stars in the new episode "Last Chance to See Those Tattoos" as a woman who rebuffs Charlie's (Charlie Sheen) overtures and tells him the word is out about his womanizing. It's not only out; it's online, as Jake (Angus T. Jones) discovers when he plugs Charlie's name into a search engine and finds a Web site called www.charlieharpersucks.com.

I Want a Dog for Christmas, Charlie Brown!

Nothing can replace the classic "A Charlie Brown Christmas," but this 2003 animated special reunites the updated Peanuts gang and the yuletide season. Linus and Lucy's little brother, ReRun, needs stress relief. He goes to Snoopy for attention and fun, but the canine has plans that don't include the boy. Voice talents include Jimmy Bennett, Adam Taylor, Gordon and Bill Melendez.

7 p.m. on 38-WB

Gilmore Girls

After getting a call from Rory (Alexis Bledel), Lorelai (Lauren Graham) gives Dean (Jared Padalecki) a letter Rory wrote him in "A Messenger, Nothing More." Lindsay (Arielle Kebbel) finds it, then throws Dean out — with matters only getting worse when Rory comes home from Rome. Luke (Scott Patterson) also returns to Stars Hollow and tries to find private time with Lorelai.

7 p.m. on BRAV

The Christmas Special

No, that title isn't a typo. It's a Christmas special about Christmas specials, full of clips and behind-the-scenes dish about the shows that take over television every December, from the perennials such as "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer" to the one-time-only events such as Judy Garland's 1963 special. Interviewees include "Charlie Brown" animator Bill Melendez and King Family (remember them?) alumni Cam Clark and Tina Cole.

8 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

House

In the new episode "Damned If You Do," House (Hugh Laurie) treats a nun with swelling in her arms, a rash and bleeding palms. Could it be stigmata — those marks corresponding to the wounds supposedly inflicted upon Jesus at his crucifixion? House doesn't think so. He diagnoses an allergic reaction and gives her a shot of medicine, which causes her to have a heart attack. Cuddy (Lisa Edelstein) steps in, but she may be too late.

8 p.m. on 38-WB

High School Reunion

In the new "Episode 302," Gianni uses his hall pass to hook up with Loretta. His ex-girlfriend, who has never quite gotten over him, loses it when she realizes the two were gone all night. Carin and Nikki compare notes on Carin's unhappy school experience. Two attractive sisters join the reunion and stage an innovative competition to determine which guy will share their hall pass.

8:30 p.m. on 6-NBC

Scrubs

J.D. (Zach Braff) gets unexpected competition in Elliot (Sarah Chalke), who's been prompted by Molly (guest star Heather Graham), for the position of chief resident in "My Office." Carla (Judy Reyes) is jealous of the attention Molly gets from everyone else. Dr. Cox and Turk (John C. McGinley, Donald Faison) have a sensitive situation involving a patient and a light bulb.

9 p.m. on 26-ABC

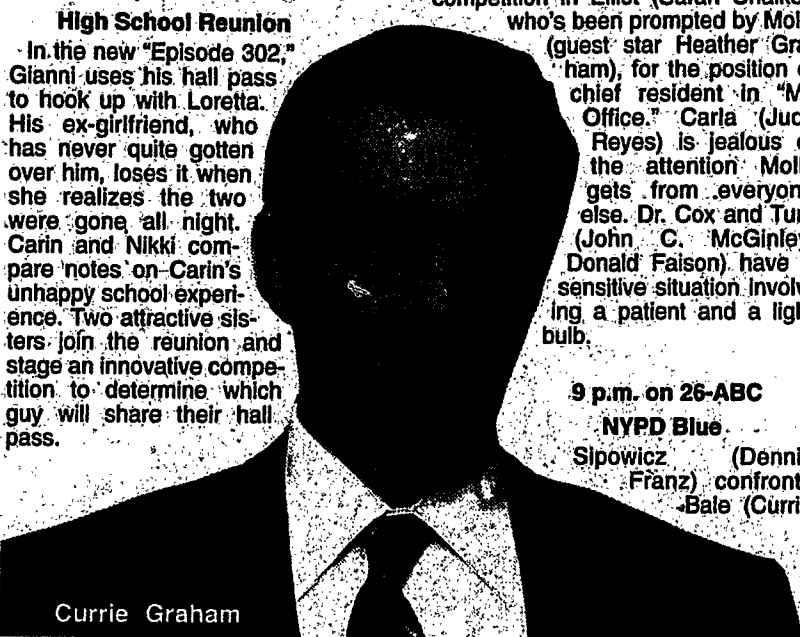

NYPD Blue

Sipowicz (Dennis Franz) confronts Bale (Currie

Graham) after finding his credit card in the home of a suspect. Clark (Mark-Paul Gosselaar) helps Munson (Lisa Lackey) fend off a judge's unwanted advances during a party in his honor. Ortiz and Murphy (Jacqueline Obradors, Bonnie Somerville) suspect the brother of a promising young player is behind a drive-by shooting at a basketball court in the new episode "Bale Out."

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order: Special Victims Unit
Located in an abandoned college-campus building after vanishing, a teenager (guest star Amanda Seyfried, "Mean Girls") tells Benson and Stabler (Marijka Hargitay, Christopher Meloni) a shocking tale of her ordeal in "Outcry." She maintains she was held captive by three men in uniform, but the police detectives don't buy her story, eventually suspecting her father (guest star Michael O'Keefe) of involvement.

The King of Queens

Doug (Kevin James) discovers his wallet is missing while he and Carrie (Leah Remini) are Christmas shopping in the new episode "Silent Mite." She thinks he merely lost track of it, but he's convinced that it was stolen by a man who was hitting on Carrie earlier. He enlists Arthur (Jerry Stiller) to help him track down the alleged thief.

8 p.m. on 6-NBC
The West Wing

The president (Martin Sheen) and his aides arrive in China for the summit, with Bartlet still feeling the effects of his recent multiple sclerosis-induced attack of paralysis. Back home, Josh and Leo (Brad Whitford, John Spencer) are scrambling to prepare for what could be the mother of all natural disasters: a direct hit on the United States by an asteroid. Allison Janney also stars in the new episode "I'm a Pact Winter."

9 p.m. on 4-CBS
CSI: NY

In the new episode "Night, Mother," a sleepwalking woman is found next to a murder victim. She's covered in blood and has what appears to be the weapon used in the slaying — a wooden stake — by her side. Looks like an easy one, doesn't it? Not to Mac (Gary Sinise), who knows you can't always judge a crime by its circumstantial evidence.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC
Law & Order

The murder of a Japanese tourist prompts Briscoe and Green (Jerry Orbach, Jesse L. Martin) to question the victim's husband in "Gallin." A suspect's arrest casts doubt on the supposedly grieving widower, leading the police detectives and prosecutors to consider a possible conspiracy behind the slaying.

A Charlie Brown Christmas

The granddaddy of all the "Peanuts" specials, this heartwarming half-hour remains fresh thanks to its timeless messages. While it's easy to get caught up in the commercial aspects of the season, that's not what Christmas is all about. With a little assistance from Linus, Charlie Brown helps the rest of the gang see the light. A half-hour of holiday vignettes with the "Peanuts" gang follows.

7 p.m. on 6-NBC
The Apprentice

They've designed toys, women's fashions, soda bottles and ice cream, hawked goods on QVC, and watched their number dwindle with The Donald's every utterance of the F word: "fired." And now there are two. At the end of the two-hour season finale, one goes home and the other goes to work for the Trump empire. The last lap is a bumpy one, though, with difficulties arising from a polo match, a basketball game and a Tony Bennett concert.

8 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

8 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC
Life as we know it

Still trying to sort out his feelings for Sue and Ms. Young (Jessica Lucas, Sweeney, Sarah Strange) stumble through a discussion about the direction their friendship is taking. Chris Lowell also stars in the new episode "Family Hardships."

Hope & Faith

Hope & Faith
In the new episode "Aru-Bah Humbug," Faith (Kelly Ripa), doesn't want Justin (Paulie Litt) to stop believing in Santa, so she dresses up as the big guy and tries to come down the chimney. Of course, there's no way a person can get down your average chimney without a little Christmas magic, which Faith doesn't have. So she gets stuck. And when Hope (Faith Ford) tries to get her out, so does she.

8 p.m. on 6-NBC

Movie: Secret Santa

Santa's identity truly is a secret in this 2003 holiday movie starring Jennie Garth as a reporter who doesn't put much stock in Christmas spirit. Expect her stance to change when she goes to a small town where the population enjoys the perks granted by a generous, anonymous philanthropist. The journalist is determined to uncover who the benefactor is. Steven Eckholdt co-stars.

8:30 p.m.

on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Less Than Perfect
Claude (Sara Rue) is in trouble—with Owen; Carl and Ramona (Anne Dick, Will Sasso, Sherri Shepherd) in the new episode "Claude's 15 Minutes of Christmas." She'd promised them a chance to appear in GNB's holiday greeting to viewers, but she learns later that there are strict rules about who gets to be on, and they're out of luck. Lydia, Jeb, Kipp (Andrea Parker, Patrick Warburton, Zachary Levi) and Kipp's lady clash over holiday plans.

In Focus

It's been another round of alliances and counterstrategies, but it's just about over ... and host Jeff Probst presides again as the two-hour finale of "Survivor: Vanuatu — Islands of Fire" is followed by a tell-all reunion special Sunday, Dec. 12, on CBS. However much you think you see on executive producer Mark Burnett's unscripted show, there's always a lot you don't. Surprising truths invariably emerge when a "Survivor" season ends, and expect that to be the case again, whoever gets the $1 million.

Popé the sailor man is still strong to the finish 'cause he eats his spinach ... and he's also computer-animated for the first time in the new Fox special "Popé's Voyage: The Quest for Pappy" Friday, Dec. 17.

Co-written and executive-produced by Popé's devotee, Paul Relsner ("Mad About You"), the tale takes the title hero (voice of Billy West) on a search for his long-missing father. He crosses the path of the Sea Hag (voice of Kathy Bates), who has unpleasant plans for him.

7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Movie: Remember the Titans

Denzel Washington scored one of his biggest box-office successes to date with this true 2000 drama from the Disney studio. The actor plays a high-school football coach in charge of integrating the facility's first multiracial team in 1971. The assignment gives him plenty to smooth over with students, their parents and other faculty members. Will Patton, Donald Faison ("Scrubs"), and Nicole Ari Parker co-star.

7 p.m. on 4-CBS

The Story of Santa Claus

After a toymaker and his wife are evicted from their shop by landlords, they head to an orphanage to deliver their only remaining bag of toys. When they get lost in a storm, they find themselves at the North Pole, where they meet a group of elves. After saving an elf's life, Santa is allowed to make one wish. The elves then must use their magic to make his wish of giving every child a toy come true. Ed Asner and Betty White provide voices in this animated special.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order: Criminal Intent

Relatives of a wealthy man become suspects in his fatal beating in "Happy Family." Goren and Bishop (Vincent D'Onofrio, Samantha Buck) focus their investigation on the victim's wife, from whom he was getting divorced. The probe ultimately results in an Agatha Christie-like gathering of all the possible killers.
